4 Trustees facing recall uphold school decisions

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

Four Romulus School Board members facing ouster in a March 4 recall election say there is no valid basis for the action.

In a joint announcement, the four trustees — President Gerald Budd, Vice-President Gordon Silvey, Secretary Gloria Chandler and Trustee Ron Christensen — made their first public rebuttal to allegations of "irresponsibility" made against them.

"This recall election arises from our efforts to provide a sound educational program for the children of Romulus, maintain financial integrity of the school district, while having to comply with the many laws, rules and regulations governing the operation of a school district," they stated.

The four school board members first came under attack when busing was eliminated in early fall along with curtailment of other school programs. Although most of the cutbacks were restored following the successful passage of 8.5 mills in November, many of the persons who initiated the original recall drive were still unhappy with the board.

Many said the board was unresponsive to the people's needs.

But, even after busing and other programs were restored, determined residents continued their drive to oust the four members listed on their petitions. Jack Bath, former vice-president of the school board, was also on the list to be recalled before he resigned in December.

"It would have been a violation of our oath of office if we didn't protect the fiscal integrity of our school system," said one of the four trustees facing recall in explaining their position.

The spokesman for the quartet added that the School Advisory Committee under Chairman Doug Baum proved last fall that there was a definite need for the millage. "This same committee checked all records and found that the board had done nothing illegal or improper."

The spokesman also pointed out that the board was within its rights to keep asking for additional millage elections. (The millage passed in the sixth election over a two-year period).

The three school board members not on the recall petitions are Shirley Lombardi and Wayne Avery, who both refused to cut busing last fall, and the newest member, 27-year-old Mike Woods, who was named to fill Bath's vacant seat in December.

A total of 28 years of service on the school board has been logged by the four facing ouster. Budd leads in longevity with 12 years, Christensen has served eight years, Chandler five and Silvey three years.

"If the four school board members are recalled, it will leave only three members with a total of less than three years experience," the spokesman continued. Lombardi has served two years, Avery was elected last June and appointee Wood has two months' service.

Complicating and clouding the entire picture is the cry of "politics" by many observers. All four school board members facing recall — Budd, Chandler, Christensen and Silvey — are strong backers of successful mayoral candidate, William Oakley.

Mrs. Jean Voight, who helped head the recall petition drive, is an avowed supporter of unsuccessful mayoral candidate, Terry Trout, as are many others behind the recall drive.

However, Mrs. Voight told the Romulus Roman in January that the 42 persons who circulated petitions "did a good job of keeping politics out of the recall drive."

"Whichever way the vote turns out, we would make the same decisions over again because we voted our consciences and did what we felt was fiscally sound and best for all the people of Romulus School District," the four school board members facing recall stated this week.

"During the past few years our school system has suffered through very difficult times. Extremely difficult decisions in reduction of school programs had to be made. These decisions were made with out concern that the school district provide the maximum educational opportunities for the children of Romulus," they stated.

"It is regrettable that some of these decisions may have caused hardship to some, but the alternatives were few. We believe that if we had sacrificed the educational interests of the children for other concerns, we would have violated our oath, our trust to the office, and our commitment to education for the children of the Romulus Community Schools," their statement concluded.

Senior housing topic of meeting

Citizens of Romulus will have the opportunity to find out the latest in senior citizen housing plans for the city when "We the People" holds its monthly meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 23, in the community room of Romulus City Hall, 11111 S. Wayne Rd.

At the meeting will be two prominent men who are knowledgeable in that field. Leo Sklar, designated senior citizens housing developer, and City Clerk Leonard Folmar, will address the audience and bring them up to date on where the program stands.

Sklar, head of North Cranbrook Associates development firm, was appointed by Romulus City Council a few months ago to pursue senior citizens housing projects for the city.

According to reports, Sklar's group has options to buy land in the area of the old Romulus Elementary School, 11165 Olive St., near the downtown section of the city. Attempts are being made to purchase the old school, which is being used for the Romulus Adult Education Program.

Sklar will outline what he has achieved in the past few months and which way senior citizen housing in Romulus will go in the coming year. "We the People" is a non-partisan, civic group organized in Romulus about a year ago to bring information to the residents on a wide variety of subjects.

Also speaking tomorrow night will be Folmar, who by virtue of his job as city clerk has much knowledge about what is being done in the field of senior citizens housing, not only in Romulus but around the state. Folmar and Sklar will be available to answer questions after the meeting, which is open to the public.

"The meeting is not only open to the public but we strongly urge Romulus residents to attend the meeting and get involved in their city," said Dick Campbell, spokesman for "We The People."

Campbell, who is active in many community affairs, said he was attempting to get some city council members to attend the meeting.

ANP sets clutch

In its continuing efforts to keep abreast of local news, the Romulus Roman will sponsor a coffee clutch at 4 p.m. Thursday (tomorrow) in the community meeting room of Romulus City Hall, 11111 S. Wayne Rd.

Dennis Fassett, managing editor for Associated Newspapers, which publishes the Roman, will be on hand to lead a question and answer session for all interested citizens.

"This is another in a continuing series of public information seminars designed to acquaint the reading public with how a newspaper functions," Fassett said.

"All residents are encouraged to come and suggest how content and communication with the local weekly newspaper can be improved. We want input from as many people from Romulus as possible," he added.

"We feel we have a good product and we are always striving to make it better. Romulus residents can be a big help in making the Roman a better newspaper by suggesting ways of getting more local news into our paper," Fassett said.

Also on hand for the coffee clutch will be Roman reporter Jim Bradley, who will be happy to inform participants about the most effective ways to get their news in the local weekly.

Interested and concerned citizens of Romulus will find that tomorrow will be a very good day to become involved in the community.

D.G. FASSETT
Managing Editor

Following the 'Coffee Clutch' will be a regular meeting of the Romulus 'We the People' organization, a local group dedicated to improving the community through citizen participation.

The "We The People" meeting will start at 7:30 p.m. and will feature Leo Sklar, Romulus designated senior citizens developer, as guest speaker.

Also present will be City Clerk Leonard Folmar, who will join Sklar in bringing local residents up to date on the latest progress in senior citizen housing plans for Romulus.

Blackouts coming?

Energy crisis is confusing

The energy crisis which looms as a result of the nation-wide coal strikes is becoming more and more confusing.

Although Detroit Edison, the area's largest supplier of electricity, warned last Thursday of impending blackouts to conserve energy, the firm and two of its competitors later in the week had changed their tune.

Instead, Edison came out the day after Gov. William G. Milliken's somber television address Friday night warning of possible state immobilization and said the situation was not so bad as originally thought.

Despite Milliken's 10-point power conservation plan for homes, stores, public buildings at work, Edison said twice daily two-hour blackouts earlier proposed as likely by March 16 would happen only if customers did not conserve, if the firm cannot continue buying outside power, and if the firm cannot continue to burn oil and gas in its generating plants.

Last Thursday, Edison officials had reiterated their call for a voluntary 10 percent reduction of electric usage by its residential, commercial and industrial customers.

Friday night, the Governor urged:
1) Elimination of outdoor advertising lights and decorative outdoor floodlights.
2) Elimination of commercial display lighting and window lighting and the reduction of interior lighting.

3) Reduction of lighting in public facilities.

4) Reduction of street lighting.

5) Turning off of lights and electrical appliances in offices when not in use.

6) Reduction by businesses of electrical usage.

7) Home lights not in use should be turned off.

8) Home appliances, televisions, radios and stereos should be turned off when not in use.

9) Thermostats should be turned down on electric hot water heaters.

10) Furnances should be dialed down to 65-68 degrees.

In addition, Gov. Milliken is closing down state offices and buildings on weekends and during the week after normal working hours.

He also announced that the state is opening an energy emergency center at the Department of Commerce building in Lansing. State residents with shortages in oil, gas, coal and kerosene can call 517-373-8250 for assistance, he said.

With the governor foreseeing certain layoffs because of the coal strikes, along with the virtual immobilization of the state's economy, he said he is exploring all avenues to extend coal supplies through the state.

Voc ed department shines during 'tour'

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

Escorted by Pat Gresock, some 20 visitors were shown through the various departments of the Vocational Education program at Romulus High School last week.

Included in the group was Romulus Mayor William Oakley, his administrative aide, John Shea; Jay Young, public information officer, myself, and a number of enthusiastic senior citizens and their group leader, Donna Lee Zavitz.

Mrs. Gresock, coordinator of National Vocational Education Week, and Director E. L. Sheffield's right-hand person, was a gracious hostess as she guided the casual 90-minute tour, which was climaxed by delicious dinner in the Romulette Room.

Cosmetology was our first stop. Several girls were combing and setting hair on dummies' heads. The ladies in the traveling group were offered a free permanent just for calling and setting up an appointment later on.

After explaining the full treatment students learn in working to beautify hair, the tour guide took us to the home ec department where girls in the sewing II class were working on their own creations.

The teacher, Phyllis Cibula, said the only boy in the class was absent that day. She told how the girls were getting ready for a fashion show in spring and had one girl display a dress she was making for herself. Another girl was sewing matching outfits for herself and her boyfriend.

A few more steps brought us to the child care wing of the voc ed department.

Jan McMurtrie is coordinator of the child care center's child development program. In existence four years, the child care program is teaching 15 RHS students to creatively watch over 19 young children in the class.

Included in the 15 students learning to work in child care centers are 14 girls and one boy, Ron Robinson, who is employed by a child care center. Three girls, Pat Searcy, Joann Miller and Sharon Green, are also working at child care centers.

"Many mothers are going back to work and there should be plenty of jobs for the students in caring for children," Jan said. Glancing at the students, she added, "These kids really care about this program. They take great pride in their work. Voc ed has my vote!"

The students, working in child care training, alternate their days to include time for working with the children, planning, theory and visiting other elementary schools and care centers.

Then it was on to the office education department where Mary Jerger was in charge. She's been at the school six years and taught the visitors how a mag-card IBM machine typewriter works.

Then the "alert" reporter took the wrong turn in trying to catch up with the senior citizens and had assistant principal Jesse Merriweather lead him up and down halls asking people if they had seen a group of senior citizens go by.

After about 15 minutes, Merriweather found the group in the health occupations department and waved goodbye to our reporter. Director Bob Brock and his staff had taken the blood pressure of just about everybody when we arrived.

So a group of eager students surrounded me as Teresa Tyson, a senior, wrapped my arm to measure my blood pressure. Gloria Smith, Donna Franklin, and Alfreda Rooks all kidded her as she squeezed the bulb. The rubber wrapping inflated, pressing tight against my bicep. "Well, will I live?" I ask kiddingly.

"It reads 120 over 80," answered Teresa.

Then we asked Jay Young to snap a picture for posterity. Alfreda, who seemed so learned in the ways of taking blood pressure, took my pressure a second time and let me put the stethoscope in my ears to hear my heartbeat. Junior Joe Brazeau moved his bulky frame in closer while he poked fun at the girls taking my pulse.

When Alfreda finished, she said, "You're 132 over 80."

"I guess I didn't pump it up high enough," answered a surprised

Teresa, who tested my pressure the first time.

Surprised by the difference in the readings, I asked, "Is 132 very high?"

"Not for a man your size," Teresa answered innocently.

"Thanks a lot!" as all I could laugh over my shoulder as I passed Joed Foulks, a nurse's aide. I stopped to thank Connie Moore, the assistant director of health occupations, who is a licensed practical nurse. The students were delightful and really seemed to know what they were doing.

Commercial foods was our last stop at the Romulette Room, a regular restaurant where you can buy a meal inside the high school. Of course, it's just for people in certain categories and since I was a guest, I didn't want to endanger my free meal by asking, which categories could eat in the room.

Oscar Butler is a very dedicated director in teaching the students all about preparing, serving and collecting money for the food.

"We stress personality because personality sells," he told the group.

The food was prepared by culinary arts students, all seniors, and they dished up a tasty tuna casserole, lightly flavored with chopped mushrooms.

Butler said: "I'm talking about quality more than quantity. I don't care how many students pass through here, but I do want everyone of them to be completely trained before they leave."

He told of several students who had graduated and gone on to be employed by large restaurant chains, as well as placing eight in the Hilton "Around the World" food preparation course.

Sitting right across from me during the luncheon was Apollonia Trzcinski and Clarissa Brown, a retired teacher, who had taught for many years in the Romulus School District.

Mrs. Brown saw many of her former students at the high school who were only little children when she instructed them at Romulus

Elementary School many years ago.

They discussed calories, fattening foods and other 'weight-conscious' subjects as an over-sized reporter tried not to take their comments personally.

In all, it was a fine tour and s. Gresock, Mr. Sheffield and all ners involved deserve hearty mmedation for a job well done uring "National Vocational Education Week."

Special treatment

Romulus Roman reporter Jim Bradley received special treatment all along the way as he accompanied about 20 senior citizens and others on a tour of vocational education departments at Romulus High School last week. But Health occupations students seemed to give him extra special treatment as they swarmed around to take his blood pressure. Maybe they thought he was "sinking fast". Whichever the case, Jim was attended to by Alfreda Rooks, who takes his pressure and lets him listen in on a stethoscope. Assisting Alfreda are two junior classmates, Donna Franklin (left) and Gloria Smith. Senior Teresa Tyson had earlier taken Jim's pulse.

Plymouth Democrat fills county seat

WILLIAM JOYNER

For 4-H program

By MAUREEN CAMPS
ANP Staff Writer

A 28-year-old Plymouth Township Democrat is the new representative on the Wayne County Board of Commissioners for residents of Belleville, Plymouth, Wayne, part of Westland and the townships of Canton, Van Buren, Sumpter and Plymouth.

William Joyner was selected last Thursday by the members of the county board as the replacement for Royce Smith as commissioner in the 27th District.

Smith resigned the job in January so he could take another county post, head of the Wayne County Board of Public Works. Smith, former Belleville mayor who served 1½ terms as commissioner, will oversee development of the new "super sewer" that will service much of the 27th District area.

Joyner comes from the opposite end of the large commissioner district, the largest in geographical size in all of Wayne County.

He has never held political office before, although in 1974 he was an unsuccessful candidate for state representative.

A graduate of Central Michigan University, Joyner has a background in public relations and advertising. He served for a 1½ years as administrative assistant for Livonia Mayor Edward McNamara in 1973-74, has worked as executive assistant to the president of Gale Research, working in community relations, and currently works as public relations consultant. The $17,500 position as county commissioner is supposed to be a part-time job, and many commissioners have other full or part-time jobs as well. Joyner said he plans to make the job "as full-time as possible," putting in 35 to 40 hours a week as commissioner.

"I want to be a full-time commissioner," he said Friday, his first day on the job after being appointed late Thursday afternoon.

Joyner was nominated by Westland Commissioner Thomas Presnell, whose district covers most of Westland and Garden City. There were two other nominations from the floor — Canton resident and township board member Robert Myers, and Fred Montgomery, a local union official at Wayne County General Hospital. However, when the commissioners approved Joyner, the official action was made unanimous by the motion.

At the same meeting, a replacement was picked to fill the vacancy in the 7th District, created when Cheer Wozniak of Hamtramck resigned to take a job with the county public works department.

New commissioner in that district is Marth G. Scott, a Democrat.

Joyne Friday said he has "always had ambition to be in public life" and when he heard about the Smith vacancy he decided to make a bid for the appointment. Although he said he will assess his performance in the next few months before deciding whether or not to run for the office in the late summer primary and fall election, he is "leaning" in the direction of being a candidate. He said it would be foolish to take the appointment now if he isn't ready to seek the job in the election.

His term expires at the end of this year so elections in August and November will give citizens the chance to pick their representative. There will be no special election in the meantime, however, because of a state law recently passed eliminating the necessity for a special election in years when there is going to be a general election.

Joyner said he has already made an effort to contact all the elected officials in his district, and lists as a top goal his desire to be available to them whenever he can be of assistance.

He noted that the far reaching boundaries of the district include a quite diverse population, from the stable community of Wayne, to traditional Plymouth, to fast-growing Canton Township, to rural Sumpter and Van Buren.

His No. 1 priority is to articulate the needs of Western Wayne County, to help create an identity for the area, he said. Joyner's former boss, Livonia Mayor McNamara is one of the most vocal suburban leaders championing out-county causes against the City of Detroit. Joyner said he wants to represent Western Wayne County and have it count as a strong entity, but still wants to work with all of the county as a total community as well.

Joyner added that one of the biggest issues that will be facing commissioners is the question of whether or not Wayne County should have a county elected executive or administrator. He said he believes that the board will be grappling with the issue soon.

He said he tends to support the idea of an elected executive, and would also support putting the question to voters on the ballot.

Joyner and his wife, Paula, have a six-month old son. Mrs. Joyner is a teacher in Farmington.

Complex to house horse school

Horse lovers in Belleville, Van Buren Township and Romulus heard good news this week.

Wayne County Commissioner Edgar L. Harris, who represents Romulus, has announced that 10 acres of county land in the City of Wayne has been set aside for further development of a Horse and Pony Educational Center and riding facilities.

The center will be used in the county's 4-H Horse and Pony Educational Program.

Located on the border of Romulus at Van Born and Venoy roads, the Wayne property is next to a planned model farm and educational complex that the county is developing with a $4.7 million grant. That development will be used by the County's Cooperative Extension Service and the Intermediate School District, which already have facilities there.

Harris said it will be at least a year before the unique Horse and Pony Educational Center can be developed because the county is concentrating on getting the farm and educational complex completed.

"But, when completed," he said, "the Cooperative Extension Service will offer youngsters a total learning experience in horse care, health, training and riding. Not every kid is interested in riding a horse. Some want to grow up to be veterinarians. The 4-H programs tries to meet all needs."

Harris said the Cooperative Extension Service had asked the Board of Commissioners to make this land available for the highly popular 4-H program because it was "getting increasingly difficult to find private grounds or fairgrounds adequately handle the 4-H program's needs."

"More than 1,000 young people currently take part in horse clinics, workshops, riding instruction, achievement days and other educational projects sponsored by the 4-H program," Harris said. "Our county 4-H extension agents told us they were desperate for land, particularly in a central location that would meet the needs of a growing number of horse lovers in the Western Wayne County and downriver areas."

Harris said future plans for the 10 acres include a riding arena, barn, pasture areas, suitable fencing and parking lots.

He said federal funds for the proposed project will be sought.

Harris said the Public Works Committee of the Board of Commissioners, which he chairs, had approved the transfer of the property which has been assigned to the Wayne County Federated Library System in December. The transfer was then approved by the full Board of Commissioners.

"We are excited about the overall plans for this beautiful section of county property," Harris said. "The library, the Intermediate School District and the Cooperative Extension Service share the area and are doing a splendid job of bringing this spring to fill the position of county commissioner in the 27th District."

Harris added that "even though the new horse facilities are in the planning stage, there still is a outstanding 4-H horse and pony program available to county youngsters."

"Young people can learn English or Western style riding, Hunt's Seat, or take reigning classes," he explained. "The county even has a unique program for handicapped youngsters who want to learn to ride a horse."

For more information, contact Margaret Leskowski, a county 4-H extension agent, at 721-6576.

Mrs. Leskowski said that there also will be used for other 4-H programs involving animals

Bruce
VanVliet

As Bruce VanVliet explains it, he became an Inkster Ledger Star delivery person "just to make money."

The 12-year-old has been doing just that for about eight months. The son of Glenn and Vivian VanVliet of Hazelwood, Inkster, he is a seventh grader at Davis Hix School.

Bruce likes what he's doing and meets a lot of interesting people on his route, but the one unusual thing that keeps happening to him is not getting enough editions of the Ledger Star.

Bruce lists his interests as model making, ranging from planes, cars and boats, to basketball.

29 students collect all A's

Twenty-nine students at Belleville North Junior High School have been recognized for academic efforts by receiving a gradepoint average for the 1st marking period of the semester.

Seventh graders garnering coveted perfect marks were Brad Ballard, Galen Kenyon, Thom Ley, Ann Oliver, Catherine Sea, Tonya Smith, Roger Templeman, Robert Williams, Michael Wilson and Kathleen Zager.

The top eighth graders were Cliff Cicotte, Michelle Croteau, Ronie Helton, Kevin Krug, Veronica Loechli, Curtis Mack, Joann Mills, Deborah Music, Jenna Oliver, Pamela Previtt, Gerald Remy, James Ryznar, Mary Walls, Andrea Whittico and Michael Winnie.

The ninth graders collecting straight A's were Scharmin Dorostkar, Toni Grieve, Michael Habel and Cameron Porzondek.

Editorial opinions

Threatened blackout is avoidable

Friday night, the Governor of Michigan went on state-wide television to appeal for energy conservation.

Friday night, the President of the U.S., Jimmy Carter was telling the country and the mine workers, whose walkout has created the impending blackouts, that this time he was really serious. "If the walkout is not settled shortly, I will take serious steps."

Carter, much like the frustrated parent, seems to be asking his children if they want a spanking, while inside he knows full well that he is not capable of administering the punishment.

While we have no quarrel with the mine workers' right to strike for improved wages and working conditions, we do quarrel with Carter's apparent position of opposition to remedy the situation, at least temporarily.

It is obvious to anyone that the very last thing that the Governor of Michigan wanted to do was to go on television and concede that the state was at the mercy of a labor dispute centered hundreds of miles from Lansing, but go on television he did. Testimony to the fact, we think, that the Governor of Michigan holds little hope of an early settlement of the mine workers' walkout, and even worse, any action by Carter to head off the impending layoff of countless Michigan workers.

We applauded the apparent decision by President Carter to let the mine workers and the mine owners work out their problems without federal intervention. But, when the question becomes whether or not any business or labor organization has the right to shut down the entire country to win concessions for their point of view, we think it is time for the leaders of our country to make the hard decision.

Business and labor should both know that some limits must be imposed on their actions.

We hope that Carter will soon realize that while labor supported his campaign for the White House, it is labor that will also be the largest loser if and when the blackouts begin.

'Water under the bridge' authors thanked

With the publication of 'Water under the bridge', the Belleville-Van Buren area has achieved a measure of notoriety long overdue.

The book, the first literary effort of Diane Wilson and Cathy L. Horste, was published in late 1977 following almost three years of research by the pair.

We feel that the efforts of the dedicated pair of journalists, in pursuit of preserving and perpetuating the history of Van Buren Township, is worthy of the highest praise.

We at Associated Newspapers would like to acknowledge the hours of work, 16-hour days, missed families, and countless other sacrifices that the pair made to bring the new book into the world.

While most authors have the benefit of their new found wealth to convince them that it was all worthwhile, Diane and Cathy have only the thanks of a grateful community.

The cost of the effort was underwritten by Van Buren Township as part of its celebration of the nation's Bicentennial. And one of the provisions of the deal was that the two Van Buren authors would receive no compensation for their long hours of work.

But little compensation was needed to encourage the labor of love performed by Diane and Cathy.

We hope that we can speak for the entire community when we say, Thanks Diane Wilson and Cathy L. Horste.

It is to your credit that you will have left a legacy for those yet to come, with your fine book.

How are we doing?

Every once in a while it is a good idea to stand back and take a look at your accomplishments and goals. That way you can view your situation from a fresh perspective and spot potential problem areas early. In addition, that approach will get you far enough out of the woods to see the trees.

But even better yet, if you really want to know how well or how poorly you are doing, you should ask those that must ultimately have the last word, your customers.

Well, we are asking you. How do you think we are doing?

This is your newspaper. Hopefully bringing you the type of coverage of your community that you want and need.

Drop us a line and let us know what you think.

We will publish the replies in the paper unless you request that we do not.

Send your letter to The Romulus Roman or The Belleville Enterprise at 116 Fourth Street, Belleville, Mich. 48111, or 35540 W. Michigan Ave., Wayne, Mich. 48184.

Editor's Log

Can you top this?

Tell me about it

By DENNIS FASSETT
Managing Editor

I have for some time counted myself fortunate that I have never been subjected to the dunning letters that we so often hear about.

But, all of that has now been changed. Like almost everyone, I have my share of bills. Monthly, quarterly, and yearly bills, but . . .

Several months ago, I received and proceeded to pay, a bill from my insurance company for $10.18.

The check for $10.18 cost me 15 cents which I put into a 3¢ envelope, using about 1/2¢ worth of ink, and mailed it with a 13¢ stamp. Since the whole process took about 10 minutes, and I figure that my time is worth about $10 per hour (no one else has ever realized that), the entire process cost me $1.98 1/2.

So far so good. That is the cost of doing business. But, 15 days later I received another notice to pay the same bill.

Thinking that the company had just not processed my payment yet, I ignored the second notice.

After another 15 days, the third notice arrived. This time the company was threatening to cancel my policy for non payment. It was now obvious that the company had not received my check. Since I had no desire to see my policy cancelled, but even less desire to pay the bill a second time, I sent them a letter explaining that I had already sent the check.

I placed that 1¢ sheet of paper into the 3¢ envelope, affixed a 13¢ stamp and again mailed it. But this time, I had invested about 30 minutes in the venture, or by my reckoning, $5 worth.

The second correspondence had cost me about $5.17, but I was secure in the knowledge that this time the company would have to reply to me, since provisions of the state's Truth in Lending Act require a company to respond within 30 days to any inquiry of that nature.

But once again, 15 days following my letter, another notice arrived, informing me that my policy was cancelled. I ignored that notice also since I thought that they had not received and processed my letter.

You guessed it; 15 days later another notice arrived. This time it was an offer to renew the old policy. Just sent $10.18, and we will reinsure you the notice read.

Well by now, more than the required 30 days had elapsed since I had sent the company my letter. They had either ignored my correspondence or had failed to receive it.

I composed another letter and again placed the 1¢ sheet of paper into the 3¢ envelope with the 13¢ stamp affixed. Another 30 minutes of my time bought this effort to $5.17. But this time I had included in the letter a reminder to them that they were required by law to respond to my letter within 30 days.

It has now been over three months since I first received a bill from the insurance company. The company, in spite of my two letters and phone calls, has still not acknowledged their failure to credit my account for my payment even though they were given a copy of the cancelled check.

I have now invested more than $14 trying to get the $10.18 payment credited to my policy, and I have still not been assured that the policy is in effect.

It is interesting to note that this same company has spent a considerable amount of money lobbying against consumer legislation. Their argument has been that such legislation was not really necessary to protect policy holders.

Well maybe not. But at this point in time, I am not convinced that a large company works as hard as it should to help its customers resolve their problems. And maybe that is what consumer legislation is all about.

Do you have a story similar to mine? Why not drop me a line and tell me about it.

Bald Eagle Speaks

Perfection takes time

By BOB AMEEN

In the world of American private enterprise, an old Latin saying when translated says, "Let the buyer beware."

Nothing could be more true. Consider that a few short years back in the market place, the new digital wrist watch with its massive metallic case was heralded as the timepiece of the future. Its electronic circuitry was a masterpiece of fine craftsmanship and ingenuity. Its cost ranged from $200 or $300 to as high as $2,000 to $3,000.

Today, competition (bless that institution) has tumbled the price of these electronic marvels to as low as $50 to $100 for the more popular name brands, with economy models selling for as little as $7 or $8!

What is ironic is the fact that some of these cheaper economy models of today are vastly superior to their over-priced brothers when they were first introduced to the American buying public.

Helping to bring down their price was a reduction in their popularity with the masses because of their very high rate of malfunction. In spite of their electronic insides, they could not compete with the timepieces of today and yesteryear in wear and tear.

Now, shift your attention to ballpoint pens. When first introduced by Reynolds about a quarter of a century ago, these pens were "guaranteed" to write anywhere, including under water. They sold then for the extremely high price of $12.50 each. If any of them worked for even a few minutes, it was a mistake!

Today, ballpoint pens made out of plastic sell for a few cents each and are heads and shoulders above the first Reynolds pens. They are so much better that even to compare them with a Reynolds is humiliating.

Another case in point is the electronic calculator. When first out on the market, a good small model cost $250 with an adaptor to plug into the wall socket. Its number of functions were quite limited, that is, the number of different mathematical functions it could perform.

Currently, models which are immeasurably better, sell for as little as $6 to $10 and perform more functions with less chance of malfunction or need of repair. Medium-priced models selling for $30 to $50 seem like a mini-computer compared to the first $250 models.

The same can be said for small portable hand-held radios, which can be purchased for as little as $4 or $5 with batteries. When first introduced, they were many times that costly.

It seems that the moral of these stories is to wait until the dust settles before buying anything new and revolutionary, letting the competition develop and catch up.

Health Beat

Love's object lesson

By RUSS TUTTLE
Director, Community Relations
Peoples Community Hospital Authority

This story had its genesis almost 17 years ago.

A young couple and their 5-year old son moved into Nankin Township. This was their first new home; they had lived previously in apartments in Ann Arbor, Chicago, and Detroit.

The home, like most of the new homes which seemed to sprout overnight in the many subdivisions throughout the area, sat in the middle of a literal desert of sand. The builder had scraped off the existing topsoil which would be sold back to the owner when it was time to put in the lawns.

There was no garage, nor were there any fences. But no matter, it was a new home and the dreams of what it was going to be entertained the owners for many evenings that first year.

There was going to be a recreation room in the ample basement (the studs are up but that's as far as it has progressed to date.) And the bathroom has been rebuilt as has the kitchen. The spare bedroom is still waiting to be completed for use as a den or library.

But back to the beginning. When the family lived in the Detroit apartment, it was the fervent desire of the little boy to have his own dog. Apartment rules forbid the keeping of pets so he was told he must wait until they bought a home before he could have his dog.

They had been in the home only a matter of weeks when the boy reminded his parents of their earlier promises.

The parents were equal to their word, and the search began. They drove to a kennel in Superior Township but found nothing to their liking. Next they visited a large place outside of Northwest Detroit where they found a $750 boxer. He was a beautiful animal, but $750 was out of the question.

As they left the boxer farm, the little boy was seen standing with his arms around the animal's neck. Small tears trickled down his face and he was heard to say, "Goodbye. I can't take you home 'cause you cost too much money."

On their way home from that experience—they were driving west on Ford Road—they spotted a sign on Ford near Wayne Road which said 'Nankin Township Dog Pound.'

They turned into the pound and talked with the man in charge. He took the family inside what was, at least by today's standards, a primitive animal shelter. They selected one little mongrel and started out when the wife spotted a litter of black and white puppies. They were only two days old and their eyes were still closed. The initial selection was reluctantly returned to a cage and one of the new pups was chosen.

Then began a long period of keeping the pup alive. She had to be fed with an eye dropper and her diet was supplemented with vitamins and various nostras thought to be good for baby animals.

To everyone's amazement, the pup lived and grew into a loveable and very smart pet. In truth, she had no pedigree, but the vet in a moment of charity wrote on her papers that she was a cocker spaniel.

The boy and the dog grew up together sharing food, sometimes the same bed, and most of all a genuine affection for each other.

In her 15th year she began to lose her hearing, several teeth had to be removed, and she developed an arthritic condition in her rear legs which made walking painful and at times impossible.

The family knew what had to be done, but none of them had the courage to say anything out loud.

The dog became incontinent, and obviously life was no longer interesting to her. The boy turned into a young man of 20. Time was running out on his dog.

The decision was made to call the vet for a final appointment.

The father, mustering all the strength he could find, assured the mother that he would take the dog for her last ride to the vet.

On the appointed morning, as the mother left the house on her way to her job, she turned at the front door and called for the pet. Almost miraculously the dog was able to walk to the door, tail wagging as if she were once again a pup.

The mother squatted down and petted the old dog. "Goodbye," she said, "you've been a wonderful pet."

In an outburst of what was real love, the father almost ordered his wife to leave immediately. You see, it was almost more than he could bear to watch that touching scene.

The 20-year old came down the hall from his room and picked up his companion of better than 15 years. Then the three of them — father, son, and dog — climbed into the car for that difficult drive which would culminate in the death of their pet.

As I recalled this story, thought: why can't we treat each other with the same affection we seem to have for animals? And why can't we return love to those who show us affection with the same warmth and sincerity that a dog can display?

Maybe, just maybe, those so-called lower forms of life have something they can teach us.

'POW' my love

By JOYCE HAGELTHORN

Now they tell me!

When the tall, handsome pilot swept me up in his arms and declared his love, I thought it was because somewhere out there in the heavens some magnetic thing had happened which brought us together and we both recognized that we were meant for each other.

Now science says it ain't so! Through scientific research the probability is that the reason that tall, handsome pilot had swept me up in his arms at the moment he did, was because he had just had the jumping bejebeers scared out of him while flying, or maybe for not saluting a superior officer.

The fact that I was young and beautiful with a magnificent personality had nothing to do with it except that I was handy at the time his adrenalin was leaping from all that fear, and he mistook it for love.

If at the moment his adrenalin was surging he had come in contact with some burly six-footer of the same sex, he would have hit him in the nose...for that surging would have been interpreted as anger.

So I married the pilot and sometimes during that 33 years I've loved him, and sometimes, I've felt like hitting him, but I never doubted that it was all the great things about me that caused him to love me.

And now I know...that that surging love or deep anger that has visited our home during those years is nothing more than a wave-crest of sorts, sort of like the Bio-rhythm bit, with no more meaning than how the guy with all the surging adrenalin interprets it.

So much for the perfume that turns him on. If he has just narrowly been missed by a hot-rod and you happen to be standing on the porch, you're going to get a big hug.

If he's just come home from the office and nothing has happened but dullsville, then, baby, you aren't getting nothing...because dullsville does nothing to the adrenalin.

One nice thing about all that research however, is the finding that if you and your beloved do a lot of fighting, then love is developing, because as one of the scientists said, "Anyone that you get really close to, that you love a lot, if you get that involved with them, you fight!"

From now on when you get into a great big fight with the fellow you are involved with, remember it's just a way of showing your love.

So to my beloved...don't send me roses...just bop me one on the snout...to prove you love me!

Response to SEMTA plan

To the Editor:

After reading Representative Mahalak's response to SEMTA's plan I would like to reply since I went to Lansing January 17, 1978. I would like to address myself to a few confusing facts about SEMTA and some of the problems of why Romulus doesn't have a small-bus program and how we can boast like Taylor that we can get one in the near future.

To begin with, everyone in this area is for mass transportation, from Representatives Mahalak and Owens, to State Senator Faust, to our Mayor Oakley, the city council of Romulus and the citizens of Romulus. With this project everyone has a responsibility in order to get it.

First off, the state legislature has slapped a moratorium on SEMTA's ability to buy buses. This has to be lifted in order for SEMTA to even purchase the buses for any small bus program. This transportation bill (Milliken-Ryan bill) before the legislature of a two cent gas tax plus increase in license plate taxes has to be passed to allow SEMTA to have a budget to purchase more buses and set up more bus routes and small-bus programs.

Yes, I agree with Representative Owens, that we must get assurances from SEMTA that out-Wayne county gets more of a fair share of the transportation program (bus routes and small bus programs). Mayor Oakley and Romulus City Council have committed themselves to this program of the small buses. The citizens have to make known that they want this transportation system and where they wish to go.

Why doesn't Romulus have a small bus program? A lot of it has to do with the city politics.

The paper work was started back in 1975 to apply for small bus program or dial-a-ride. With this paper work submitted, we were put on SEMTA's fiscal year '77 Priority 2 Projects to get (2) 10-14 passenger vans, (1) 10-14 passenger van with hoist and other related material for setting up the system.

SEMTA ran out of money and then they put us on fiscal year '78 to be considered with Taylor. SEMTA has found that it is too expensive to set a system for one city or township, so they are encouraging communities to combine on transportation boards.

In July of '76 a city administrator of Romulus told SEMTA that Romulus wasn't actively interested in the dial-a-ride program. The council became aware of this in October '76 and passed a motion to have a letter sent to SEMTA rectifying the situation. This letter was never sent out.

The city didn't apply to SEMTA for dial-a-bus program again in July '77. The current council and Mayor Oakley are in favor of the small bus program and promise to resolve the matter of monetary commitment.

I would like to clarify a few other facts that Representative Mahalak has mentioned, such as money area to be covered, services available, and board of directors for a transportation system.

This system costs money. The first year it costs $1 per plus $1,000 as a token fee to SEMTA to set up the system. In the second year, the system is the board's responsibility. The money comes from bus fare, SEMTA subsidization of $.10 per mile and other areas. In Trenton, they had a budget of $121,000 for fiscal year '77, which came from 1/2 mill property tax. Taylor is going to use CETA money, which comes from the federal government. A contract can be made with the various private sectors, such as using local cab company for bus drivers and maintainances of the buses.

Let's consider the square miles of the communities under consideration. In Romulus there is 36 square miles with an airport in the middle. Taylor has about 24 square miles. Van Buren, Sumpter, Huron Township and Belleville combined have about 100 square miles.

Imagine someone living in the right hand corner of Romulus (Van Buren and Inkster area) and someone living in Sumpter area (Willis Road-Rawsonville area) and then both of them have to go to Wayne County General Hospital? That is a lot of miles to cover. Taylor-Romulus has less square miles to cover, therefore less driving time and less expense.

Next, let's consider the services available. A transportation system can't go out of its own jurisdiction. Till this area is built up, we don't have any services to speak of.

As far as shopping goes, a couple of grocery stores, a hardware store, an auto parts store and a few drug stores and local stores for emergencies. We already have to go to other cities for services and shopping.

Taylor has Southland, Meijer's Thrifty Acres, Heritage Hospital and clinics and doctors. They have Southland theaters and the Pandora's theatre. Another consideration is for us to be able to go to Wayne County General Hospital and that would be possible by including it in the contract with SEMTA.

Nankin Transit Authority is a dial-a-ride program made up of Garden City, Inkster, Wayne and Westland. They have equal representation, plus equal sharing of cost. Are we, the people of Romulus, going to always be afraid of not speaking up for our rights when working with other cities. Let's not 'cow' before other cities, but work equal with them as adults. Thereby, we the people of Romulus need strong adult people to represent us on a transportation board.

After going to Lansing on January 17 with the senior citizens and working with the people of this community in the Fish organization, I feel that the people would openly accept a program with Taylor.

Representative Mahalak is one man with an opinion and bad experiences. But I don't want his bad experiences and misunderstandings of the complex problem of transportation to make us lose getting a small bus program.

Yes, he should fight with SEMTA for a definite commitment for us. He should aim for a recall on the moratorium. We have to respond too.

Now I ask you, citizens of Romulus: How many of you would like a chance to use a small bus program jointly with Taylor and the possibility of using Taylor's services over the current transportation system of nothing?????

Mail a disgrace

To the Editor:

I am completely disgusted with the mail service in Romulus.

Several times a week the mail is delivered after 5 p.m. That alone is bad enough, but there are days when we have no mail delivery what-so-ever. When a neighbor called the Taylor Post Office for an explanation, the reply was "We are short of help, and had no replacement for your Carrier who was sick today."

It is my understanding that Taylor took over the mail service for Romulus in 1976, "temporarily". Would you care to give me an estimate on how much longer it will be, before Romulus is permitted to resume handling our mail? I would like to know if there is any hope for decent mail service in the near future.

Nursing home law updated

Legislation to upgrade Michigan's nursing home laws (substitute Senate Bill 659) has been reported out of the Senate Committee on Health, Social Services and Retirement, after several years of research and numerous committee meetings devoted to the revision of the rules and regulations governing nursing home operations in Michigan.

The bill is broken down into eight categories including everything from patients' rights to anti-abuse and fraud provisions.

Foremost among the changes is the proposed end to the practice of nursing homes acting as guardians of patients' estates. The Senate Health, Social Services and Retirement Committee intends to keep that portion of the bill intact as a protection against conflict-of-interest in the nursing home industry. Presently, the rights of the patient are jeopardized by the system which allows nursing home guardianship.

Provisions for other patients' rights involve a patient appeal procedure for those who disagree with a transfer or change. The patient is given the opportunity to appeal decisions and actions unless there is medical cause or failure of a contracting party to pay the charges.

Nursing home owners, administrators, and employees are prohibited from interfering with any civil or criminal action by a patient against a facility. In addition, complaint identities are protected against possible retribution.

Under the bill, medical treatment conditions will be consistent since the Department of Public Health is required to promulgate rules and standards for nursing home health care. The quality of the health care must be evaluated regularly and notification of next of kin when the patients' medical condition is life threatening is mandatory.

Another change in the nursing home law is the requirement of at least one surprise inspection visit each year by Health Department officials or any representative of the State Fire Marshall and the Office of Services to the Aging.

Examples of improved staffing standards are that a registered nurse must be on duty at all times. Also mandated are staff-patient ratios for both day and night. Competency tests are to be given to all nursing home aides and a training curriculum developed.

There are several anti-fraud and abuse provisions built into the legislation. Formal contracts specifying services and charges will be necessary between the nursing home and patient. Nursing homes cannot use false or misleading information either in advertising or in applying for a state license and certification. Strong prohibitions against physical, mental or emotional mistreatment, including harmful neglect of a patient are provided under the measure.

Finally nursing home facilities will be fined for violations of S.B. 659 and the media will have access to licensee violator lists made available by the Department of Public Health.

With the bill now reported out of the Health, Social Services and Retirement Committee, it will go to the full Senate at the end of January. From there it is expected to go to the Senate Appropriations Committee for further study.

Deadline nears
on license tabs

Michigan motorists must display the 1978 license plate tabs on trucks, trailers and commercial vehicles by March 1, according to the Automobile Club of Michigan.

"Commercial vehicle owners who fail to have the red and white tab displayed by March 1 will be ticketed," said Auto Club Touring Manager Joseph Ratke.

State motorists have until April 1 to put tabs on plates for passenger cars and motorcycles. The new tab must be displayed on top of the 1977 tab in the upper right corner of the rear plate.

To obtain a tab for trucks, trailers and commercial vehicles at Department of State or Auto Club offices, vehicle owners must bring in either the prepared renewal form mailed by the Department of State, the 1977 registration or the certificate of vehicle title plus proof of public liability and property damage insurance.

"Persons who use their vehicle title for proof must know their license plate number," Ratke said.

The mail order deadline for commercial vehicle and trailer license plate tabs was Feb. 1. Motorists can order tabs by mail for passenger cars and motorcycles from the Department of State until March 1.

More than 1.5 million 1978 license plate tabs have sold so far, which is 150,000 more than a year ago at this time.

Swing

'stars'

The Swing music that excited a generation of young people during the '30s and '40s will be revived at Henry Ford Museum Theater during the Sunday offering of the Historical Concert Series.

Jim Dapogny and the Easy Street Swing Quintet will recreate the style and sound of Benny Goodman's famous and successful small groups, as well as other Swing musicians of the era. The performance will be at 3:30 p.m. There is no charge beyond museum admission of $3.50 for adults and $1.50 for children.

Examples of Swing, a popular form of jazz, will be performed during the first set. During the second set, the groups will trace the evolution of Goodman's group, gradually increasing the number of musicians and instruments with each successive tune. A high point is the addition of the vibraphone, which was a relatively new instrument resembling the xylophone.

Spouses may pay for housing battered wives

Four Wayne County Commissioners are suggesting that a "cash reimbursement plan," that would require husbands to pay shelter and counseling costs for battered wives, might be a better deterrent to domestic violence than any threat of jail.

They said the cash reimbursement plan, still in the discussion stages, would also shift the burden of paying for a costly shelter program from taxpayers to the persons "dishing out the black eyes and broken ribs."

Meanwhile, the four commissioners — Mary E. Dumas (R-Livonia), Jarrette Simmons (D-Detroit), Jackie L. Currie (D-Detroit) and Rose Mary C. Robinson (D-Detroit) — already have co-sponsored a resolution seeking help for battered spouses and abused children. The resolution was approved unanimously by the Board of Commissioner's Human Resources Committee on Feb. 8 and was presented to the full board Feb. 16.

"This resolution supports the intent of several bills now in the State Legislature, as well as other proposals to aid battered spouses, but we also intend to pursue other remedies that are just beginning to surface as public discussion and concern for this issue grows," Ms. Dumas said.

Simmons said the four commissioners are "appalled at the lack of legal help and protection available for battered women and children" and intend to "join forces with other groups and citizens who are working to change this situation."

She said one of the key points of their resolution urges the issuing of peace bonds to protect battered wives during the court-imposed five-day cooling down period while awaiting trial.

"Very simply, a judge would order a violent spouse to leave the other one alone while they are waiting to appear in court," Simmons said. "If he didn't, he would be fined or put in jail — or both, depending on the circumstances."

Currie, who chairs the Human Resources Committee, said in addition to the cash reimbursement plan to help pay for sheltering and counseling abused spouses, the commissioners also were considering a "cash bond forfeit" idea that has been proposed by Detroit's Executive Deputy Police Chief James D. Bannon.

"For some reason, Bannon's proposal has not been given serious consideration and I think it deserves further exploration," she said. "Under his plan, a police officer would be able to issue a battered spouse violation much as they do traffic tickets. The accused person would be required to pay a certain fine for the violation — with the alternative being a court appearance. If he failed to show in court, he would forfeit the cash bond."

Dumas said each of the new ideas, along with all of the provisions of the resolution, will be presented to the State Legislature and at various public discussions.

"We are seeking participation in a Feb. 27 workshop on battered spouses in Lansing that is being coordinated by State Rep. Paul A. Rosebaum. He chairs the House Judiciary Committee which is dealing with the issue and has already held two public hearings on it," Dumas said. "We recognize that the critical need is to remove abused wives and children from the threat of further violence. "However, we also are looking at these cash reimbursement proposals so that these costly programs do not fall solely on the shoulders of the taxpayers."

The commissioners' resolution also calls for expanded police training in domestic violence, increased state and federal funding for emergency counseling services and shelters for battered spouses and their children in Wayne County and the passage of legislation that would give greater legal protection and recourse in the courts to battered spouses.

It specifically urges the State

Police Training Council to increase substantially the required number of hours in domestic violence training and also improve the training techniques.

Michigan Consolidated Gas Co.'s Educational Programs Center is offering a wide variety of programs to assist consumers in conserving energy. The programs feature information about conservation, furnace maintenance, natural gas supply and how gas bills are calculated.

Mary Chris Schmidt, educational programs center representative, is available to conduct programs in the downriver area. In addition to presenting programs for civic organizations and other groups, she also will present programs to schools in the community.

Miss Schmidt can be contacted at 965-2430, ext. 2925.

'Firespitter'

The Senufo Tribe of the Ivory Coast are the creators of this helmet, "Firespitter" mask. Made of wood, the mask measures 38 inches tall and was gift to the Detroit Institute of Arts by former Gov. and Mrs. G.

Mennen Williams. It is among the items currently on display at Eastern Michigan University in "African Art from the Detroit Institute of Arts".

Museum asks visitors to touch in exhibition

Henry Ford Museum will break the time-honored museum tradition of "Do Not Touch" at its "Warp and Weft" exhibit Saturday through March 19 when it will encourage visitors to touch, handle and even operate some carding, spinning and weaving devices.

The exhibit traces the processing of wool and flax from fiber to fabric. It takes its name from the fabric threads—the warp, threads running lengthwise in a piece of cloth, and weft, horizontal threads interlaced through the warp.

Diagrams, photographs, demonstrations by experts, and the visitors' own efforts lead them through the steps to the final textile product, linen and woolen coverlets with their characteristic simple designs and soft tones. There are opportunities for visitor participation in these processes.

In the section devoted to woolen material, visitors can try carding wool fibers and spinning thread on a wooden drop spindle.

Next, experts from the Museum as well as area spinning and weaving guilds demonstrate their skills, and the textiles are dyed with the derivatives of natural materials, such as golden rod and other vegetable fibers.

The next section focuses on parallel steps in the manufacture of flax into linen. Diagrams, illustrations and demonstrations follow flax from harvesting through retting (rotting the inner core), rippling (combing to remove seeds, braking (beating) the fibers, scutching (knocking out the core), hackling (combing), and the final dressing for the spinning wheel.

The final process, weaving, involves both fibers. Small table looms will be available for visitors to use. Rare woven coverlets from the Museum collection complete the display. There is no additional charge for "Warp and Weft" beyond the regular museum admission of $3.50 for adults and $1.50 for children age 6-12. Children under six are admitted free. Museum hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. on weekends.

Institute's African exhibition pays visit to EMU campus

"African Art from the Detroit Institute of Arts", a show on the road exhibition currently is on display at the Sills Fine Arts Building on the campus of Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti.

Sponsored by the EMU Departments of Art, Minority Affairs and the Center for Afro-American Studies, the exhibit will be open through March 7.

The 18 objects chosen represent varied cultures of sub-Saharan Africa, an area three times the size of the United States. Since the art of Africa forms an integral part of daily life, these objects range from the functional to the ritual utilizing wood, metals including gold, clay, fibres and paint. Accompanying photo panels show geographical sites, craftsmen at work and objects in use.

Because most objects are made of perishable materials subject to temperature and humidity damage, dating is difficult, but most are no more than 100 years old. In most African societies, wood, metalcrafts and weaving are practiced by men; women are the potters. Some skills such as blacksmithing remain within a family and are handed down through the generations.

The "Firespitter" (Ivory Coast) mask in the exhibition is a composite of many animals—head of a hyena, eyes of a human, tusks of a wart hog, mouth of a crocodile. Dancing at night, the wearer blows sparks from the mouth to frighten away spirits thought to enter the community under cover of darkness.

The "Helmet Mask" of the Bundu Society (Sierra Leone) is a rare type worn by women of an adult organization whose purpose is to protect its members from exploitation by men and to initiate young girls into their roles in society.

"Mancala," a game board originating in Liberia, is an example of strategy games played throughout the African continent in numerous variations. Counters are used on a 12-hole board.

The Ashanti "Female Figure Seated on a Stool" (Ghana) illustrates the importance of ancestor veneration in African cultures. The figure depicted is thought to be a female ancestor in her prime exhibiting the valued qualities of physical beauty.

Two gold ornamental objects, which indicated position in the society, include a "Ceremonial Headband" worn by Bawle rulers (Ivory Coast) and a four-inch gold filigree bead (Ghana). These denote wealth as well as power.

Among other objects are a carved wooden cup used for ceremonial or ritual purposes by the Kuba rulers, an ornamented wooden stool made for a person of rank in the Songye society, both of Zaire. Other African pieces show the fine craftsmanship

CARLOS MONTAYA

World-renowned Flamenco guitarist Carlos Montoya will appear in concert on Sunday at Music Hall Center in Detroit. The single performance will start at 6:30 p.m. Montoya is considered to be the master of Flamenco guitar music. His improvisations, technique and creativity are famous throughout the world, and his recordings and concerts are widely hailed. A native of Madrid, Montoya was a child prodigy, achieving fame in Spain by the age of 14. A gypsy by birth, Montoya was the first artist to take the themes and melodies of Flamenco music and carry them to audiences in solo concerts, without benefit of singers or dancers. Montoya does not read music and believes that guitar playing should "mirror your feelings". Although Flamenco music has strict rules of rhythm and its own characteristic chord patterns, it is the spirit of spontaneous musicianship and extraordinary talent that make no two Montoya concerts the same. Tickets are available at the Music Hall box office, 350 Madison Avenue, between 12 noon and 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday. Telephone orders are accepted from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Call 963-7680 for ticket information.

of utilitarian objects—a pipe, knife, doll and vessel, each from different cultures.

A huge textile, "Kente" cloth shows the unusual method of weaving cotton and silk in narrow strips which are joined in vertical rows to make intricate patterns. Again the fabric and width of the strips illustrate prestige in the clan or society. This example is from Ghana.

The range of objects in the exhibition demonstrates the varied and sophisticated craftsmanship of the diverse cultures of sub-Saharan Africa. The craftsman was usually a valued member of his society.

'Runner Stumbles' opens this week

"The Runner Stumbles", based on an actual murder trial which took place in Michigan during the early part of the century, will open Thursday evening for a four-week run at the Meadow Brook Theatre on the campus of Oakland University near Rochester.

Detroit native Milan Stitt wrote "The Runner Stumbles" about a priest who is charged with the death of a young nun. Meadow Brook newcomer, Jeffrey McLaughlin, will portray the intellectual Catholic priest who is assigned to a remote parish near Traverse City. Starving for companionship, he responds eagerly to an ebullient young nun who has been sent to the parish as a teacher. Cheryl Giannini returns to Meadow Brook to play the role of the nun. Marianne Muellerleile will be seen as the priest's rough-hewn housekeeper. William LeMassena will portray the defense lawyer and Michel Cullen will play the prosecutor. Others in the cast include Peter McRobbie, Charlotte Bova, Michael Rothhaar and Patricia Reilly.

"The Runner Stumbles" is under the direction of Charles Nolte with a setting by Donald Beckman, lighting by Nancy Thompson and costumes by Mary Lynn Bonnell.

Opening week performances are scheduled at 8:30 p.m. Thursday and Friday, 2 and 8:30 p.m. Saturday and 6:30 p.m. Sunday. The following three weeks will offer performances at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday through Friday, 6 and 9:30 p.m. Saturdays, 6:30 p.m. Sundays and 2 p.m. Wednesdays. The theatre is dark on Mondays.

Tickets for all performances may be purchased by calling the Meadow Brook Theatre box office at 377-3300.

Snow-covered adventure

Right outlook can make winter exciting

By SAM GRISSOM

It takes approximately 136 days to go from short sleeve shirts to winter coats and back again. The first half goes rather quickly. With all of the holidays and the shopping, you really don't have the time to get to depressed about winter. It's not until the second half that it starts getting hard to handle. That last 90 days can be a killer. However, with the right outlook it can be an exciting time for adventure.

Doing anything in winter requires a little more planning and preparation than the same activity would in summer. For some reason, perhaps their vivid imaginations, kids are able to generate as much excitement preparing for a hike through one of the metroparks as would be expected when planning for an assault on Everest.

Hiking is the one activity that is basically free, and can be easily adapted to fit your family regardless of age.

The only requirement is that they be able to walk. Carrying a small child in a back pack would not be advisable, since you would have no sure way of gauging his temperature requirements.

Hiking need not be a forced march to be enjoyable, and I would recommend that you start out slowly and for short distances. You will find that you will tire easily when hiking in winter, and nothing is worse than having to carry a child that is too tired to walk back.

You will want to dress warmly, but remember that you can over-dress. Wear loose clothing in layers so that you can remove some based on your requirements. Nothing can ruin a day afield as fast as getting cold; and the quickest way to do so is by overheating. As soon as you slow down the cold will set in. So take it slow and easy.

One piece of equipment that can enhance hiking is a good pair of binoculars. Don't buy the largest that you can find. The 10x50 and 12x60s are nice, but without some type of support the images will be distorted. The higher the magnification the more user hand vibration will effect the image. For most people the best glasses for all around use are 7x35.

A small day pack might be a good item to have. You can use it to carry extra gloves, lunches, and maybe a thermos. Something else that you might want to carry is a good book on wildlife identification. With all of the different types of birds visiting our area from the far north I'm sure you'll be unable to identify them without help and if you wait until you return home it some times hard to remember exactly what they looked like.

Many people look upon winter as a time of year that the world is without color. With hiking you'll soon find that it is anything but colorless. While the trees are bare of most of their leaves, they possess every shade of color imaginable. Exactly what shade of brown is the bark on an oak tree? What color is the trunk of a large maple? Is birch bark really white? You would never see those subtle color differences in summer when green overpowers everything.

All colors seem brighter in winter, and God's creatures are no exception. Birds are everywhere and many have so many different colors that they seem to be featured rainbows.

With the ground cover beaten down by the snow, and the leaves absent from most of the trees, you'll see animals that in summer you'd have walked right past. Rabbits are easy to spot and nothing shows up quicker than a fox squirrel searching for nuts in the snow. Sometimes, if you look hard enough, you'll see a fox sunning himself on a hillside.

Get out and find your adventures in the snow. You just might find that when you start following a rabbit's tracks out of a thicket that it will lead you right out of the winter blues.

Club emphasizes skiing

By BOB AMEEN

Cross-country ski enthusiasts in Canton Township are lucky in that they have access to a newly-formed club which takes its members to area metroparks for weekly recreation.

Formed only last month by the Canton Township Parks and Recreation Department, the cross-country ski club took its first outing Jan. 12, according to Mrs. Brenda Pollack, department director.

"Because we go skiing each Thursday during the daytime, our members either do not work or they have the day off," she explained. Ages of members range from children to senior citizens.

Thus far, the group has taken three trips to Kensington Metropark near Millford and to Maybury State Park near 8 Mile and Napier roads.

Although the greatest number of persons making the trips each Thursday amounted to only 11, Mrs. Pollack said she plans to continue the outings the rest of this winter and hopefully again next year.

She said the club, soon plans, to also visit Willow Metropark south of the Lower Huron Metropark near Flat Rock.

Many more members could be obtained to make the weekly trips, she said, if they were held on weekends when more people have time for recreational activities. But, she explained, the metroparks are so clogged with people that it was decided not to go during those times.

Mrs. Pollack said most of the club members rent their skiing equipment at the metroparks rather than take their own. If purchased, a "cheap" set of skis, boots and poles would run about $100, she said.

"No special clothing is specified for our ski outings, but it is important that something warm and not too bulky be worn," she emphasized.

The Thursday outings leave Canton at 11 a.m. and return about 5 p.m. Those persons who wish to leave on the Thursday ski trips should call 397-2777 on the Monday before to register.

Although open primarily to Canton Township residents, she said that members can bring friends, but that they would be charged transportation costs, if they live out of the township.

Ice skating comes of age

By DENNIS FASSETT

Carefully balancing the cup of hot coffee on the car's dashboard, Fran backed the car out of the drive for the trip to the rink.

The two kids, still half-asleep in the back seat, are bundled up to ward off the near zero temperatures gripping the area.

This 5 a.m. trip to the rink is just one of the many sacrifices that the mother will have to make, now that she has made the decision to enroll her children in an ice hockey program.

An unpleasant scene? Maybe. But one that will no longer have to be lived by the parents of the kids that become involved in winter sports programs in Western Wayne County.

No more than five years ago, a distinct shortage of ice facilities existed in this area. It was not unusual for kids and their parents to be forced to drive into other counties in order to get a turn on artificial ice. A turn that hockey coaches felt was important enough in the child's skating development to justify the inconvenience.

But today, a major boom in hockey and figure skating interest has provided the impetus for the development for no less than eight new indoor ice rinks in Western Wayne County in just the last 10 years, with the majority of the new ice facilities being built less than five years ago.

Few areas in Michigan can boast of such extensive facilities for the enjoyment of winter sports.

Coupled with the rapid development of Municipal ice skating rinks, the enrollment in hockey and figure skating programs has reached heights that have surprised everyone.

It is estimated that today, almost one out of every two children between the ages of four and 16 have taken part in some form of supervised skating.

Hockey programs have grown from a few hundred, to thousands, in the communities that make up Western Wayne County, and figure skating interest has reached ever increasing record numbers. Romulus, Belleville, Inkster, Wayne, Westland, Plymouth, Canton Township, Taylor, Ypsilanti and Ypsilanti Township, Dearborn, Dearborn Heights, Garden City and many other communities, have established programs for the skating youth and adults alike that have no equal in Michigan.

Today, virtually any boy or girl between the ages of three and 18 has access to a supervised skating program, with some areas such as Plymouth offering even an opportunity to compete for a spot on the U.S. Olympic Team, following a skaters development in one of their programs.

Other developing uses for the new ice facilities that have grown-up in Western Wayne County over the past few years include curling and speed skating. During the summer months, lacrosse, tennis, shuffle board and even festivals have found themselves inside the new multipurpose buildings.

Legend has it that emeralds originate in griffin nests.

Watch the ball

Sub-zero weather won't close down the racquetball courts this winter even if it's too cold to ski the slopes. But if you insist on staying physically fit year-round, racquetball may be your sport.

All you need is a racquet, a ball, some shorts, a shirt and a court. And up to four players can compete for points.

Even if you're not interested in getting or remaining "in shape", racquetball is a sport that's worth a try. And, after tried once, you might get addicted.

Knowing the basics of tennis is not a prerequisite to the game, but players with a tennis history may have a better shot simply because they'll be accustomed to watching and batting a ball.

Most racquetball courts make the two necessary components — the ball and racquet — available through rental. There also is an hourly rate for court use.

It is not particularly a difficult game to learn, but if you are playing for the first time, a rule book can be acquired for a small fee.

Since the courts are rented out for an hour at a time, the game can be played at almost any time during the day, thus allowing participants to make it to work, school or dinner on time. Some racquetball courts are open 24 hours a day.

From the time when racquetball was exported from England and introduced to this country in 1850, the sport has been growing fast.

For example, at Wayne Community Center, the four courts built in 1974 are four too few. Residents have made the sport so popular that proposals are being made to build four more courts. In addition, court reservations must be made at least one week in advance.

Inkster's new recreation center also will have racquetball courts open to the public. However, completion date for the center, currently under construction, has not yet been given.

Canton Township residents who already have registered for court time at the high school gym, will play racquetball this winter and spring. But again, due to the game's popularity, all times have been taken. However, summer registration will be held in May.

Creative designers

Home Economics Class held a fashion show recently featuring garments made by the students. They were aided in their creative efforts by the instruction of their enthusiastic teacher, Phyllis Cebula. Tenth, 11th and 12th grade students modeled several of their own creations as poise and modeling skills were also taught during the Sewing I Class. The decorations were in a daisy "Think Spring" motif, designed by the class. The student commentator, Margie Trump, did a very professional job of describing the various outfits, according to Mrs. Cebula. Shown here are Sharon McCray (left) and Kim Rhodes, modeling their own creative designs.

Courts will have largest crop of prospective jurors

Michigan courts will have the largest and most representative crop of juror prospects in this century now that the legislation has been passed and Gov. William Milliken has signed the bills to amend present Michigan jury statutes to allow for alternative plans to reduce jury service and to eliminate all occupational exemptions.

The five-bill package, introduced by Rep. Jeffrey D. Padden (D-27th District), was co-sponsored in the legislature by 21 representatives from both political parties and different areas of the state.

"Many needed reforms of the state jury system are possible," Padden reported, "now that jurisdictions can opt to use a One-Day-One-Trial jury method similar to that initiated in several courts in Wayne County in 1975. Within three years, counties with a population more than 250,000 based on the 1970 Census, are mandated to initiate the system whereby citizens summoned for jury duty will serve for one day or the duration of one trial."

The change in exemption policy will not become effective until January 1981, but will have a major impact on the composition of jury panels at that time. It has long been recognized that the practice of exempting professional and other special groups has been greatly abused and makes it difficult to obtain a jury array that approximates a cross-section of the community.

"Under the One-Day - One-Trial Jury System, there is no reason for any citizen, whatever his or her occupation, to be excused from this important obligation of citizenship," said the coordinator of the jury reorganization in Wayne County, David E. Kasunic. "If jurors are not assigned to a trial on the day they appear in court, they are dismissed at the end of the day, and their duty is considered completed. Those who are assigned to a case will serve for the duration of that one trial, and the average trial is three to four days in length."

"The interesting thing is that many special groups supported our recommendations, contrary to our expectations. For example, Michael Franck, executive director of the State Bar of Michigan, took the strong position that lawyers actually had been deprived of their constitutional right to serve on jury duty. We have noticed, in fact, that we already have had increased participation by members of professions who could claim exemption under the existing law."

Passage of the bills also affects Recorder's Court in Detroit, which already has implemented the One-Day - One-Trial system, but an amendment in the new legislation will enable this court to call citizens as prospective jurors, if they have not served within the past 12 months, rather than once in every three years.

Included in the provisions of the bills is a listing of the qualifications, prohibitions and claimed exemptions from jury service which are allowed under the streamlined jury system. Qualifications are that jurors must be electors in the court district, conversant in the English language, physically and mentally able to serve, have not served in the past 12 months, not be under sentence for a felony. The only exemptions permitted under the system would be for persons over 70 years of age who request such exemption.

The Wayne County Jury pilot program, which received a national award, was funded by an LEAA grant which stipulated that the county share its experience with other jurisdictions. Comprehensive manuals were published so that other courts could adopt or adapt the system with minimum effort and cost.

"We have had hundreds of requests for the manuals and in-

Benefit art sale planned

The art sale will feature the work of well-known Detroit artist and designer Bob Duchlin. More than 400 paintings will be on sale.

Further information can be obtained by contacting the chapter president at 255-0787 or the Kidney Foundation of Michigan state office in Ann Arbor at 1-800-426-0757.

Scholarships are offered

Students attending Michigan's independent colleges and universities will receive an estimated $18.4 million in financial aid under the State Competitive Scholarship and Grant Programs, according to the Association of Independent Colleges and Universities of Michigan (AICUM).

"The State Board of Education reports that nearly one out of five students attending independent colleges receives financial help under the Michigan Tuition Grant Program alone," AICUM President John L. Gaffney said. "The Michigan Legislature has appropriated $13.7 million for the Tuition Grant Program for the current school year. Other financial aids — scholarships, jobs and loans — also are available to help students attend the private college of their choice."

The Tuition Grant Program provides up to $1,500 a year for students who can demonstrate financial need.

Additional information on the Michigan Tuition Grant Program and other financial aids may be obtained by writing AICUM at P.O. Box 10186D, Lansing 48901.

formation from throughout the country," Kasunic said, "and many courts have sent representatives to Detroit to observe the system. The fact that they can increase court efficiency and save money, along with improving juror effectiveness, makes this an appealing system."

He explained: "Once exemptions are eliminated, the jury panel composition of men and women also will become more equitable. Because most of the exempt categories were in areas still predominantly male-oriented, the percentage of women jurors serving in Wayne County always has exceeded that of males."

"Statistics compiled from actual number of jurors serving in Wayne County Circuit Court, for example, show that the average is 57 percent females and 43 percent males, whereas actual census figures for Wayne County indicated a population of over 18 years of age of 53 percent females and 47 percent males."

Dr. Noel C. Bufe, administrator of the Office of Criminal Justice Programs and Chairman of Michigan Commission on Criminal Justice, endorsed the Padden legislation.

"The jury reform measures ease the hardship of jury duty and therefore improve the attitude of jurors. They feel their participation is more meaningful and their lives are less disrupted. Under the One-Day - One-Trial jury system future jury panels will represent a more fair cross-section of the community, consistent with the democratic ideals of our system of justice."

Snowmobiling: Do you know its laws?

Snowmobiling has become one of the most popular outdoor winter sports in Michigan as we in this state look for new ways to enjoy that long season.

As the sport has grown, laws and ordinances have been enacted to protect those who participate and also to protect public and private property from possible damage.

The first thing you have to do before you begin snowmobiling is register your machine. The registration process is similar to that for an automobile and is for the same reason—to prevent theft.

After you have registered your snowmobile with the Secretary of State, you should make sure that it is in good working order before you begin using it. State law requires that all snowmobiles have at least one headlight, one taillight, adequate brakes, and a muffler in good working order.

If you are over 16 years old, you do not need an operating license of any kind to use a properly registered and equipped snowmobile. If you are in the age bracket of 12 to 16, you must either be accompanied by an adult, have in your possession a snowmobile safety certificate, or be operating the snowmobile solely on land owned or controlled by your parent or guardian. If you are under 12 years old, the law prevents you from operating a snowmobile except on land owned or controlled by your parent or guardian.

Snowmobile safety certificates can be obtained upon successful completion of a safety training program which is offered by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources and many county Sheriff's Departments.

With some exceptions, it is illegal to operate a snowmobile on a public highway. In fact, any time there is an accident between a car or truck and a snowmobile on a public highway, the driver of the snowmobile will be presumed to have been at fault. It is okay to drive a snowmobile on the right-of-way or shoulder of all public highways except limited access highways such as I-75. Because of that presumption of fault on the part of the snowmobile driver should any accidents result, I would suggest great care on his part.

There are some places that you are absolutely forbidden to use a snowmobile. These include cemeteries or burial grounds, railroads, railroad rights-of-way and land belonging to another without consent, when such consent is required by the recreational trespass act.

You also should know that it is against the law to use a snowmobile in hunting.

If you would like some additional information about snowmobile safety and laws, the Department of Natural Resources has two excellent booklets on the subject. You can get "The Michigan Snowmobile Guide" and "The Michigan Snowmobile Safety Handbook" by writing Department of Natural Resources, Law Enforcement Division, Box 30028, Lansing, 48909.

Thanks for your support

termediate School District board for many years. Ford predicts quick action on aid bill

Congressman William D. Ford (D-15th District) has predicted quick action and possible enactment by early spring of his Middle Income Student Assistance Act, a bill which would provide aid for college students from middle-income families.

Congressman Ford, chairman of the House Subcommittee on Post-secondary Education, joined with President Carter at a recent press conference to announce plans for the legislation.

It was introduced in the House by Congressman Ford with a number of co-sponsors, and similar legislation is being offered in the Senate by Sen. Claiborne Pell (D-R.I.), who is chairman of the Senate Human Resources Committee.

At a joint hearing of the House and Senate committees, which will handle the bill, HEW Secretary Joseph Califano his strong endorsement for the plan and assured the Congressmen of President Carter's support.

Later, Congressman Ford conducted a hearing by his Post-secondary Education Subcommittee to hear a number of prominent college presidents testify for the proposal.

The bill basically expands the existing Basic Educational Opportunity Grant program, which was designed principally to provide grants and subsidized loans to students of low-income families.

Under that plan, grants are available on a sliding scale to students with family incomes up to approximately $15,000. Loan subsidies are available for those whose families earn between $15,000 and $25,000.

"We have become aware," Congressman Ford said, "that the program discriminates against students from middle-income families, for whom no grant programs are available."

Congressman Ford's legislation is targeted at families earning $15,000 to $25,000, for direct grants, and to those in the $25,000-$45,000 range for subsidized loans.

He termed the bill "the biggest single infusion of funding for middle-income college students since the adoption of the G.I. Bill of Rights at the end of World War II."

Congressman Ford estimated that the bill will make students from 75 percent of American families with college-age students eligible for a minimum federal tuition grant of $250, and would make 90 percent eligible for some type of aid.

His last statement

A 'Star of Hope' for the handicapped

(NOTE: Bill Kiser died of cancer Jan. 8, in Winston-Salem, N.C. This column, with its Christmas theme, was his last submission to the President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped. Ironically, it arrived too late to be used during the holiday season. Now, after his death, it is a poignant statement of the beliefs that sustained him.)

(Chosen 1976 Handicapped American of the Year by the President's Committee, he played his own part in the nation's growing awareness of the concerns of handicapped people. He moved beyond the limits of his own severe cerebral palsy to speak for all physically and mentally handicapped people. "Star of Hope" is a fitting last statement.)

By BILL KISER

In this often cynical world of discord and conflict, Christmas has come to symbolize the underlying hope of mankind. In spite of the tinsel and commercialism, the Christmas season, with its shining star of hope, seems to bring out the best in human nature.

My religious belief and sustenance is that Christ is indeed the ope of the world and that he came to give all people a more abundant life. However, having grown up with severe cerebral palsy in the days when there was little understanding and even less hope, I often failed to see how the hope of Christmas applied to my life.

My early Christmases may have been especially good, because my parents and friends and neighbors made an extra effort to do things for the little boy who could not walk or talk. But as I grew older I experienced growing frustrations as a result of my impairments.

I could not go on Christmas sleigh rides or enjoy the mistletoe like other young people. In those days, when I heard that Christmas offered hope to all mankind, I often joined Scrooge in saying, "Bah, humbug." My fruitless search for employment and the many Christmas seasons spent in different types of institutions, surrounded by suffering and human decay, made it difficult for me to see that star of hope.

In retrospect, however, I can find a slim thread of hope running through the worst of circumstances. Although both parents were dead by then and I had no immediate family, someone always took time to care. While I did not always receive the services I needed at the most appropriate time, my community, my state, and the nation were gradually awakening to the needs of handicapped people.

If Christmas is truly the celebration of the birth of Jesus—and I believe that it is—we would do well to remember that this King always took time for compassion for the lame and the blind. He gave dignity and full regard to those who had far less status than do handicapped people today.

The same star of hope that guided the shepherds still is shining. Medical science and technology are opening new and previously unheard of possibilities. Government at all levels is far more responsive to the needs of disabled people than ever before.

Most encouraging of all is the growing awareness and sensitivity on the part of the average citizen with respect to those who have various impairments. The public gradually is realizing that even severely disabled people do not have to be put away in institutions, but that they can function effectively when given proper education and support services. Wheelchairs and crutches are becoming commonplace in almost every type of work situation. America is moving towards her goal of accepting all persons—even the mentally and the physically handicapped—as equal.

We have not yet met the ideals that reflect the true spirit of Christmas. Not only are there many handicapped people with unmet physical needs, but there also are many more who are victims of prejudice and misunderstanding. Rather than throwing up our hands, we must remember that it remains our task to make the spirit of Christmas real in the world. The star of hope that shone over

Bethlehem so many centuries ago still brightens our lives today, as it gives all men and women—and particularly those with physical and mental handicaps—reason to hope for a better future.

David Canary will appear at luncheon

David Canary, a regular on the once-popular "Bonanza" television series, will be featured at the Father-Son-Grandson Brunch at the Fairlane Club in Dearborn on Sunday.

While most famous for his role as Bonanza's volatile cowpoke Candy, Canary is equally at home "off the range" as a singer and dramatic actor. On Broadway he appeared in "Great Day in the Morning" with Colleen Dewhurst and "Happiest Girl in Town" with the late Cyril Ritchard. His off-Broadway credits include the original productions of "The Fantasticks", "Kittywake Island" and "Hi Paisano". Canary's regional theatre portrayals include such vastly differing characters from Stanley in "Streetcar Named Desire" to Captain Von Trapp in the "Sound of Music".

He also has made several feature films including "Posse" starring Kirk Douglas and "Hombre" with Paul Newman.

Besides "Bonanza", his television credits include a regular spot on "Peyton Place" as Gus Gehring and guest appearances on the "Rookies", "S.W.A.T." and "Police Story". Canary also will be appearing in the upcoming television film "Dain's Curse" to be released in April.

Canary, twice an All-State football player from Massillon, Ohio, who later became an offensive defensive end for the University of Cincinnati, declined a Rhodes scholarship and professional football career with the Denver Broncos to become a singer and actor. He is a graduate of the University of Cincinnati Conservatory of Music.

Anyone interested in attending the brunch, but not a member of the Fairlane Club, should contact a member for reservation information.

Eye Bank Week set for March 5-11

Most of us take our sight for granted, but for someone who lives in darkness, being able to see again would seem a true miracle.

Such "miracles" are taking place regularly through the advances of medical science and the efforts of the Michigan Eye Bank and its major supporting organization, the Lions Clubs of Michigan. In recognition of this service, observance of "Michigan Eye Bank Week" has been set for March 5 to 11.

However, the eye bank could not provide its services without the generous acts of people who request that their eyes be used, after death, to benefit others.

Permanent restoration of sight is possible for blind and visually handicapped people whose problem is the result of damaged or diseased corneas. The cornea is the clear tissue at the front of the eye, when damaged it turns opaque.

It is estimated that 90 people are blinded in the United States every day. Ten percent of these people could have their sight restored, if tissue were available for transplant.

If you would like to have more information on how you can help contact your local Lions Club or the Michigan Eye Bank at Wayne State University at 577-1329, or University of Michigan at 764-3262, for a pledge card.

Festival set to aid TV-56

For 16 days in March, Channel 56 will present Festival '78, a concentration of quality programs that marks the most ambitious drive to increase public awareness and support in the history of that television station and the national Public Broadcasting Service.

Festival '78 will be seen from March 4 to 19, two weeks so packed with specials that Channel 56 had to add on two extra days. During Festival '78, public television viewers will be treated to a lineup of specials that range from music and science to drama and comedy.

The musical offerings run the gamut from the first live telecast of Nashville's famous Grand Ole Opry on March 4 to a "Live From the Metropolitan Opera" production of "Don Giovanni" March 16. In between the Opry and the opera are a salute to Ira Gershwin, two tributes to the great swing bands and a Vienna Philharmonic birthday party for Josef Strauss.

Science and documentary shows will also play a major role in Festival '78. March 6, National Geographic will present a special on life as it exists in one of the most dry and hostile climates in the world on "The Living Sands of Namib". On that same night, a pet polar bear is the problem for a family in Russia in the charming documentary "White Bear".

In a documentary double-header March 14, Jacques Cousteau returns to dive for Roman plunder off the coast of Greece, and "Nova" debunks some myths of "The Chariots of the Gods" on "The Case of the Ancient Astronauts".

In the drama department, "Great Performances" departs somewhat from its usual format to present a three-part adaptation of Bram Stoker's spine-chiller "Dracula", Wednesdays at 10 p.m. Another offering will be the PBS premiere of the Dickens, classic "Great Expectations" March 10.

"Nana", the daring story of the affairs of a French courtesan will be encoed on five successive nights at 11:30 p.m. starting March 13.

For comedy, it's the return of Sherlock Holmes as former Monty Python star John Cleese spoofs the great detective on "The End of Civilization (As We Know It)". Also included in the Festival '78 humor programming will be another "Mark Russell Comedy Special".

The climax of Festival '78 will be the nearly 30-hour national marathon starting March 18. All night and all day, stars from all areas of the entertainment industry will be seen live from the studios of WNET-New York. Hosts for the marathon will include Dick Cavett, Hugh Downs, Julia Child and Jean Marsh. The marathon will be a nationwide drive to raise money to keep public television on the air. The hosts will appear between the continuing spree of top-notch festival programs.

Programs that will highlight the marathon will be "Big Band Bash" and a special three-hour, back-to-back presentation of all three parts of "Dracula".

A new show for that Sunday night will be the "Great American Dream Machine...Revisited". This sometimes serious, more often humorous program, takes a look at the steps (and stumbles) public television has taken in its first quarter century.

Nationally, public television stations are looking to raise $15 million during Festival '78. Locally, Channel 56 needs to raise $400,000 from viewers who will watch the noncommercial station during festival. That money, combined with individual contributions of more than $800,000 during the rest of the year, pays for half of the station's operating expenses. The rest comes from the April auction, support from corporations and foundations and from federal tax dollars.

PBS will show pianist concert

Famed pianist Vladimir Horowitz has agreed to allow his afternoon concert at the White House Feb. 26 to be video taped by public television. This concert will be shown that same Sunday at 10 p.m. on Channel 56.

Horowitz, who has performed for a television audience only once before, agreed to the broadcast because of his expressed interest in attracting larger audiences to cultural events through public broadcasting.

The hour-long special, "Horowitz at the White House," will open with a brief welcome by President Jimmy Carter. Horowitz then will play works by Chopin, Mozart and Schumann for some 250 guests assembled in the East Room of the White House. The special will be hosted by Jim Lehrer, co-anchor of the nightly MacNeil-Lehrer Report.

The 74-year-old Horowitz will be celebrating the 50th anniversary of his American debut.

"I am proud and pleased," he said, "to have been invited to the White House on this occasion of my golden jubilee."

A Russian by birth, Horowitz became an American citizen in the 1940s.

State is on stage in March

Opera, ballet, drama, musical comedy and well-known stars and artists rising to stardom, all grace the stages of Michigan during the month of March. The program runs the full gamut of the arts with delightful offerings of every type of audience, according to the Travel Bureau of the Michigan Department of Commerce.

"The Barber of Seville" opens the program March 1-3 in Shaw Theatre at Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo, and Nellie Forbush will be "washing that man out of her hair" March 2-4 and 9-11 in the Civic Theatre's production of "South Pacific" in Battle Creek.

The Paul Taylor Dance Company — considered to be among our national artistic treasures — chorographically explodes across the stage of the Music Hall in Detroit March 3-4. For those who are young in years and those who are young at heart there's the Pickwick Puppet Theatre March 4 at the Calvin Fine Arts Center in Grand Rapids.

Multi-talents, Oscar winning Michel Legrand will be in concert March 5 at the Music Hall in Detroit, featuring his compositions, as well as his genius as a pianist, raconteur and singer. Artistry in motion might well describe the incredible Jose Greco appearing March 21 in Western Michigan University's Miller Auditorium. The same description also could apply to the Hartford Ballet March 25 at the Kellogg Auditorium in Battle Creek.

Lovers of jazz will be privileged to the pure New Orleans variety played by some of the truly grand old musicians who put it together over 50 years ago. The one and only, Preservation Hall Jazz Band comes to the Music Hall in Detroit on March 9.

A hint that spring is on the way is indicated by some of the events on the March agenda such as the Tractor Pull March 4 in the Silverdome in Pontiac and the Recreational Vehicle Show March 6-12 at Eastland Mall in Burton.

A sure sign of the warming season is the Maple Sugaring Weekend at the Nature Center in Kalamazoo March 11-12. Indoor and outdoor displays and demonstrations show you how the sap in the trees gets to be syrup on your pancakes. There also is an opportunity to taste the sweet nectar.

For the "doing" folk, there's a Hobby, Arts and Crafts Show March 10-12 East Eight Mile Armory in Detroit. And for those who prefer the products of years gone by, the Spring Antique and Collectable Show-Sale March 15-19 at the Light Guard Armory in Detroit and the Michigan Antiques Show-Sale at Crisler Arena at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor March 31-April 2.

It's a great month for breaking out of your cocoon and starting to begin to get into the spring of things, in Michigan. For a complete rundown of March happenings, write for your free copy of the Michigan Calendar of Travel Events. It's available from the Travel Bureau, Michigan Department of Commerce, Box 30226, Lansing 48909.

WHEN SHOULD I PRE-PLAN MY FUNERAL?

A sage of old once said: "A man cannot say to the Angel of Death: 'I wish to arrange my affairs before I go with you.' Since we cannot know the exact time of our own death, we are well-advised to prepare for it — spiritually, ethically, practically. So it is that arranging one's affairs — including the preparations for one's funeral in advance of need — provides the satisfaction and peace of mind in having done it. In so doing, we've spared our family some measure of grief and distress. Your own choice.

We have arranged services for many people around here and have several plans for your consideration. You may provide for a funeral service costing neither less nor more than you wish it to be. Your decisions will be calm and rational, without stress or strain. Can you imagine your family faced with all the burdens of arranging a funeral when their grief and emotions are at their peak?

It is wise and practical to have professional counselling on this pre-planning with plenty of time for deliberation and discussion. You may call us for an appointment to get all the details and discussion, you need.

Drama to highlight Black History Week

The newly formed Wayne State University Black Theatre Touring Company will present a revival of the award-winning play, "The Sty of the Blind Pig," by Phillip Hayes Dean on Feb. 25, at 7 p.m. at Belleville High School Auditorium in conjunction with the celebration of Black History Week. The production is presented here under the sponsorship of the Student Activities Council, and will be presented free of charge as a service to the school and community.

This premiere production of the Touring Company was made possible by a grant from the Wayne State University Bicentennial Commission. It will be on tour in the state of Michigan during week-ends throughout the 1977-78 season.

"The Sty of the Blind Pig" tells a story of emerging black consciousness in America during the fifties — a time of transition from old to new. It focuses on a home on Chicago's south side just before the beginning of the Civil Rights Movement.

Time's T.E. Kalem called the play "eloquent, powerful, moving and beautiful... a consecrated act of theatre." Martin Gottfried of Women's Wear Daily wrote that "Dean has written a powerful play, deeply felt and profoundly moving," and Newsday's George Oppenheimer said, "He has a gift of writing dialog that has humor, veracity and power."

The cast features Lea Charisse Woods, Marion Flowers, Earl Fields, Jr. and R.J. Warren, all students at Wayne State University.

The production is directed by Martin Molson, Wayne State University Black Theatre Director, with scenic design by Russell Smith, Director of Design and Technical Production for the Wayne State University Theatres. Lighting is by George Swann III and costumes by Ric Rice, both Wayne State students.

The Black Theatre Touring Company is the newest addition to the program of the Wayne State University Theatre, Detroit's oldest non-commercial theatre and one of the nation's leading educational theatres.

Travel agent speaks at Home Arts Club

With the winter blahs upon us and so many cold-weather residents getting the urge to "get away", travel seemed a timely subject to introduce at the Home Arts Club in February. Mary Kosin, a member of the program committee, had scheduled the director of Stamos Travel Service of Ypsilanti to be guest speaker at the club's mid-winter meeting.

Following a brief business meeting conducted by Charlotte Price, president, Mrs. Kosin introduced Helen Stamos who spoke on the advantages of employing a travel agency when planning trips of any length or duration. She also gave a number of tips on the do's and don'ts of journeying.

Mrs. Stamos, who is also a gourmet cook, later surprised the group with a tray of homemade Greek cookies and baklava which she had baked. They, along with the homemade kolache Mrs. Kosin had prepared, were served amid a Valentine setting by Charlotte Budd, Elsie Ostrowski, Toni Schwartz and Lucille Bravatto.

Another program committee member, Mildred Baker, announced that the March program would feature Maria Lehto who will present the "Kalisz" Polish School of Language and Culture on March 13. The Polish dancers are to appear in costumes native to Poland. Members are welcome to bring guests.

Their posters took 'firsts'

Special poster designs were on the minds of fourth, fifth and sixth graders at Elwell Elementary School the past few weeks. With the school PTO's annual Pancake Supper in the offing, the youngsters were given the chance to vie for prizes by drawing posters advertising the event. Penny Little (from left) took top place for the fourth grade while Dan Wilson and Beth Cluk won "firsts" for the fifth and sixth grade classes. The Pancake Supper is slated for Feb. 28 from 5 to 7 p.m. and the public is invited to attend. A special family ticket for $6 is being offered for the all-you-can-eat dining venture.

Two contests stir interest in Elwell Pancake Supper

Pancakes and sausage will be on the menu Feb. 28 when the Elwell School PTO hosts its annual Pancake Supper from 5 to 7 p.m. Chairman of the event, Freda Roman, is being assisted by Rita Anderson, kitchen chairman; Judy Fender and her Girl Scout troop, dining room; Georgianna Warren and her Brownies, coat check, and School Principal William Chizmar and his staff, all-around helpers.

A special contest is being held between the fourth, fifth and sixth grades in conjunction with the supper. They are selling supper tickets in advance of the meal and vying for trophies which will be presented to the top sales person in each class.

Tickets, which will also be on sale at the door, are $1.75 for adults; $1 for senior citizens, 55 years and over; $1 for students, kindergarten through sixth grade; and 75 cents for pre-schoolers. A special family-size ticket is being offered for $6.

A contest for the best poster advertising the pancake supper also took place recently between the three upper grades. All winners received a free family ticket to the meal, a $6 value.

Fourth grade winners were Penny Little, first; Gail Whitt, second and Carma Cottrill, third.

Dan Wilson took first place for the fifth grade while Greg Buckberry and Lori Posegay won the next two awards.

Sixth graders had four winners: Beth Cluk, Paula Taliska, Joe Babik and Karen Sparrow.

The proceeds from the supper will be used to purchase a new calculator for the school, and if profits allow, a new typewriter and speaker system as well.

The community is cordially invited to take part in the evening fun which will include a special door prize.

Lonsinger-Beegle vows solemnized

Flat Rock Church of the Nazarene was the setting in early January for the double ring ceremony which united Nancy Ann Beegle and Bryan V. Lonsinger in a holy matrimony.

The Rev. Gary L. Voss presided at the candlelight rite before an altar appointed with white carnations and chrysanthemums.

Parents of the young couple, who are now making their home at 11338 Telegraph Rd., Flat Rock, are Mr. and Mrs. David Beegle of 20235 Sumpter Rd., Belleville, and Mr. and Mrs. Bryan V. Lonsinger Sr. of 13235 Gilder-sleeve, South Rockwood.

Escorted up the aisle by her father, the bride appeared in a gown of white tulle styled with a high illusion neckline, lace sleeves, an empire waistline and lace-banded chapel train.

Her veil of silk illusion cascaded to chapel length and she carried a bouquet of white satin roses and lilies of the valley.

Sandra Beegle of Belleville was her sister's maid of honor in a pale blue tulle gown designed with long sleeves and pearl buttons. Her picture hat was accented with blue satin roses which matched the flowers in the basket she carried.

Bridesmaids in identical ensembles were Sharon Marshall and Barbara Beegle, sisters of the bridegroom and bride, respectively. Nine-year old Marilyn Beegle, another sister, served as junior attendant.

The bridegroom asked his brother-in-law, Charles Marshall, to be best man. Ushers were John Carter, the bride's cousin; Alan Beegle, Bradley Lonsinger and Russel Lonsinger, all brothers of the bridal pair, and junior escort, Jeff Fator, nephew of the bridegroom.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Beegle chose to wear a long-sleeved silk knit gown of blue and white floral print with matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother donned a navy blue gown with lace-trimmed sheer sleeves. Both were honored with corsages of blue silk roses and lilies of the valley which the bride had made.

Relatives and friends, some 85 in all, attended the buffet dinner and reception which followed in the Fellowship Hall of the church.

The new Mrs. Lonsinger graduated from Belleville High School in 1974 and attended Eastern Michigan University for one year before transferring to Olivet Nazarene College in Kankakee, Ill., where she was a member of the French Club and the school choir. She is currently employed in the Day Care Center of Flat Rock Church of the Nazarene.

Her bridegroom, who attended Airport High School and later served with the U.S. Army, is presently completing his education in Monroe while working at the Paul O. Sellers Construction Co.

The rehearsal party, hosted by the bridegroom and his mother, was held in the young couple's apartment on Telegraph Road.

various income and expense items and various credits against taxes which are available to most individuals will be discussed.

A short discussion on various tax savings possibilities available to individuals will complete the workshop which will be held at the Center, located at 411 Florence Street on Feb. 27, from 7 - 9 p.m. (Fee $2.25). Senior Citizens are admitted free. Advance registrations are requested. They may be made by calling 482-2230.

Garden Club hosts district director

The February meeting of the Huron Valley Garden City was held at the home of Mrs. Thomas Books of Sunrise Lane in Belleville.

A special guest for the occasion was Mrs. Fred Trickey, District I Director, who gave a slide presentation which showed the activities and organization of garden clubs throughout the area. District I, she explained, comprises 57 clubs with 2500 members.

She told of the National Convention of Garden Clubs to be held at the Detroit Plaza Hotel in June and announced that Mrs. Jimmy Carter would be the guest of honor.

The tea which followed gave each member present the opportunity to visit with Mrs. Trickey who had prepared a greater understanding of the organization and its programs to the Belleville membership.

Chewy and Chocolatey

Unexpected company coming? Here's an easy, last-minute recipe to keep in your emergency file for just such an occasion. Chewy and sweet chocolate-covered raisins add a whole new dimension to this German chocolate-style cake.

For your recipe file

Chocolate raisin cake

It happens to everyone. You've just learned that unexpected guests are arriving and you're caught unprepared. That's when a quick and easy dessert, tucked away in your emergency recipe file, can make an impromptu gathering an occasion to remember.

Chocolate-Covered Raisin Cake will make an instant hit with guests and the whole family. In and out of the oven in less than an hour, this cake features a surprise ingredient: chewy chocolate-covered raisins. Always a favorite snack by themselves, these tiny morsels have the chewy goodness of raisins and the sweet taste of chocolate all in one. When baked in this rich and delicious cake, chocolate-covered raisins add a whole new dimension that's hard to describe—but easy to remember.

Chocolate-covered raisins are readily available either at your local supermarket or at department stores where candy is sold by the pound at candy counters. At the supermarket, look in the candy section where they will be packaged in boxes or bags.

Use chocolate-covered raisins in many of your favorite cookies, cakes and desserts. They have the same fine baking qualities as chocolate chips, holding their shape, texture and flavor during baking.

Chocolate-Covered Raisin Cake calls for ingredients normally on-hand on the kitchen shelf. Devotees of German Chocolate Cake will love the coconut-butter-nut topping that's added just as the cake emerges from the oven. A steaming pot of coffee or tea is all you'll need to complete your instant party menu.

Chocolate-Covered Raisin Cake

1½ cups boiling water
1 cup quick cooking oats
1 cup granulated sugar
1 cup packed brown sugar
½ cup oil
2 eggs
1 and one-third cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt

Topping:
¼ cup butter or margarine
½ cup packed brown sugar
2 tablespoons milk
½ cup coconut
¼ cup chopped nuts
1 cup chocolate-covered raisins

Pour boiling water over oats in mixing bowl; let stand 5 minutes. Add sugars, oil and eggs; mix well. Gradually stir in sifted dry ingredients. Bake in greased 9 x 9-inch baking pan at 350 degrees 50 to 55 minutes, or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. For topping: warm butter, sugar and milk over low heat in saucepan, stirring to blend. Mix in remaining ingredients. Spread over warm cake. Cool and cut. Makes 12 servings.

Romulus industrial ed classes to compete in U.S. Skill Olympics

Four hundred students representing high school industrial education departments throughout southeastern Michigan will compete in the United States Skill Olympics at Washtenaw Community College on Feb. 25.

The students, all members of the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America, will compete in 11 different skill areas: architectural drawing, auto body repair, auto mechanics, food service, industrial drawing, industrial electricity, machine drawing, machining tools, nursing, radio and television repair and welding.

Richard Weid, vocational education instructor at Ann Arbor's Huron High School and Dan Gray, welding instructor at Washtenaw Community College, are coordinating the competition which involves students from 15 area high schools.

Schools participating in this year's competition include: Romulus High School, Centerline High School, Detroit Northern High School, East Detroit High School, Eisenhower High School, Grosse Pointe North High School, Henry Ford High School, Huron High School, Inkster-Milton High School, Oak Park High School, Pioneer High School, Saline High School, Stephenson High School, Woodhaven High School and the Ypsilanti Career Center.

Winners in the district competition will participate next month in the state competition to be held in Kalamazoo. Winners of that meet will go on to national competition in Alabama later this spring.

Susan Lei arrives from Korea — she's now Kreft's 'little girl'

By LEE SMITH
Suburban Living Editor

There's a new addition to the family of Stanley and Phyllis Kreft of Romulus which they are anxious to share with the community. The long-awaited arrival of their adopted daughter finally occurred Feb. 5. And, ironically, after the long, long wait (it'd been 38 months) their daughter came in two hours early, beating her parents to the airport and then having to wait for THEM.

It was in November 1974 that the Krefts first applied for adoption of a Korean child. The agency they chose already had a 1-year waiting list and then, because Mrs. Kreft had to undergo major surgery, the proceedings were delayed still another six months.

But, Mrs. Kreft said, it was after the agency called on Jan. 30 to say the youngster would arrive Feb. 5, that the time REALLY dragged. "It was the longest wait we have ever had," she said.

Called Hyo Eun Jang in Korea, the newcomer was renamed Susan Lei Kreft. Susan flew into Chicago's O'Hare Airport at 3:20 a.m. on Feb. 5 and was cared for by two workers from the Holt Adoption Program until her parents arrived at 4:45 a.m. The Krefts were given Susan's medical records, a pair of souvenir Korean shoes and five words written down in the Korean language to help them communicate with the new daughter.

"On our return to Detroit Metro Airport, everyone helped us," Mrs. Kreft said, "all the flight attendants and even complete strangers!"

Susan's big brother, 9-year-old Steven, a student at Mt. Pleasant Elementary School in Romulus, has been keeping his classmates informed on all the events and has a number of pictures of his little sister to show.

Besides her parents and brother, who reside at 38035 Walnut Drive, Susan has a brand new set of grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Dalton of Bredow Road, Romulus.

"We just wanted to share this event with all your readers," Mrs. Kreft explained. "So many people knew we were adopting and have asked so much about it that this is by far the easiest way of letting them know."

Coming up in just a few short weeks will be a real family celebration — that of Susan Lei's third birthday on March 20.

Thin mints are perennial favorite of GS cookie 'set'

If the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council's 1978 Cookie Sale follows the usual pattern, nearly one-third of the 400,000 boxes of cookies sold will be the Thin Mint variety.

And this year, a Junior Girl Scout in Saline has a special motive for selling the Thin Mints—her grandfather was involved in developing the recipe for this most popular of all Girl Scout cookies.

Sarah Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Clark of Saline, is a fourth grader who will be selling Girl Scout cookies for the first time this year.

Her grandfather, John Clark, a retired supervisor of production for Famous Foods of Virginia (FFV), a national bakery with headquarters in Richmond (Va.), said, "Over the years, we've made billions of Girl Scout cookies, but it was always the Thin Mints we made the most of." Remembering when FFV first experimented with the Thin Mint cookies, Clark said it took no time at all to come up with the recipe. "We would make experimental batches of the cookies and then have different plant employees sample them. If they said there was too much mint, we'd cut back and try again."

In about two or three weeks, he and others working with him, had developed the recipe for what is now known as the Thin Mint. This is a combination of four ounces of pure peppermint to every 100 pounds of chocolate.

"Although four ounces doesn't sound like much, the mint is very penetrating," explained Clark, who has been a baker for 50 years.

The Thin Mint cookie's base, which is the cake, has no mint; only the coating is mint. "But in just a day's time, the mint in the coating penetrates through to the cake," he said.

The chocolate coating can be tricky, according to Clark who started with FFV in 1955 and retired in 1966. "Chocolate is not easy to handle; if it is not boiled and cooled properly, it could turn grey in color. It would taste the same, but I'd doubt you'd enjoy eating a grey cookie!"

Socialized medicine: What you think

BY MAUREEN BEATTY

Although this week's question — "Would you like to have socialized medicine in this country?" — did not evoke the spontaneous reaction that the right-to-die issue did last week, I still received some interesting and varied answers from those polled.

Nancy Aikmen, 62, of Westland: "I'm against it, I like the idea that government stays out of as many things as possible. Too many things now are government controlled."

Joseph Kolar, 69, of Detroit, "I think it would be a good thing. I have to keep returning with my subscription for my medicine. I don't get a months supply like I'm supposed to. Maybe socialized medicine would have a different set-up."

Barbara Buzanowski, 37, of Dearborn Heights: "I think I would. Then it would be a uniform charge. It would take care of everyone regardless of age."

Max Hesselgrave, 50, Garden City: "I have mixed feelings. First of all, it has to be paid for somehow. People don't realize it would come out of taxes. Great Britain has found it is a very costly program, I feel we practically have it now with Medicare. The only way I would agree to it is if all doctors and hospitals were regulated by wage controls."

Diane Johnson, 45, of Westland: "Because of the cost of insurance and the horrendous prices charged by some doctors, the country is asking for socialized medicine. European countries have had socialized medicine for years. They have gotten along treating everybody as an equal and have fared very well."

Hector Weir, 79, of Westland: "I heard it didn't work out well in England. I would like to see some kind of insurance program though, like the one they are talking about in Washington."

Barbara Beatty, 39, of Dearborn Heights: "After my Dad's open heart surgery, he ended up having to pay for one doctor because Blue Cross-Blue Shield would not cover a second doctor. He was admitted for surgery through the emergency room, which he also had to pay for although they only took his blood pressure. Older people need socialized medicine."

Nettie McKinnon, 67, of Westland: "The little I do know about it makes me think I would like it. I would have to go deeper into it to know for sure."

Should we all have the same opportunities for medical care regardless of income, or should our good health depend on our station in life or our job related insurance? Certainly, in a country as great as ours, a plan could be worked out that would enable all people to seek the medical help they need.

CHRIS LEVERENZ

JOE JUSTIN

JEFF DOYLE

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor
Eighteen-year-old Chris Leverenz set his sights high this year — to win a Class A state wrestling championship. And, Saturday night at Western Michigan University, the rugged Wayne Memorial senior accomplished what for many is an impossible mission. Leverenz proved he is the best 178-pound high school wrestler in the state and he proved it by defeating the only wrestler who beat him this year, Fred Blackmer of Farmington Harrison.

Chris won a superior decision, 15-2. "I had so many things on my mind," said Leverenz after the biggest victory in his athletic career. "I knew he stood between me and the state title."

Leverenz, along with eight other area grapplers including teammate Chris Bachus, returned from the two-day tournament in Kalamazoo proving that the area is one of the best when it comes to high school wrestling.

Of the top 10 teams in the state, seven were from the area. Detroit Catholic Central reigned as the state Class A team champ by edging two-time winner, Bedford, by one point. Monroe, a representative of the Great Lakes 8, finished third, while Wayne Memorial was sixth, Westland John Glenn was ninth and Plymouth Salem wound up 15th.

The area produced four state runners-up: Bachus at 138; Westland John Glenn's Bill Meyer (145), Belleville's Joe Justin (119), and Livonia Franklin's Mitch Becker (155).

Other medalists are: Bob Dasher of Plymouth Salem, who was third at heavyweight, teammate Jim Ross, who was fourth at 126, and Jeff Doyle who finished fifth for Glenn at 165. Doyle's teammate, Tim O'Neil was the sixth best 105-pounder in the state.

Wayne Coach John Wood said he was proud of the way his team

Russian flu, March Madness and letters

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

Before the Russian Flu and "March Madness" take over this area, let's get these pertinent letters out of the way:

Dear Tom,

Last week your article gave the impression to your area readers that the Suburban Athletic Conference refused to consider Romulus High School as a league member.

This is not true.

When the league was formally organized in 1973, Romulus was extended an invitation to join as a charter member. In fact, for the first two years Romulus was scheduled in all of our league sports with the understanding that they would eventually join.

I personally feel that Romulus would be an excellent addition to our strong conference, however, for reasons unknown to me they decided against it.

How many area leagues can equal the accomplishments of the SAC? In our first four years of existence we have produced three state championships — one basketball and two track. Also, two state runnerup teams — one basketball and one track. The SAC holds two state records in track and one in football. In this same time span we have produced 29 individual first team all-stars.

This past fall Robichaud was rated in football and now in wrestling. Currently, River Rouge (Class B) and Highland Park (Class A) basketball teams are rated No. 1 and 2 respectively in the polls.

The SAC has much to offer Romulus High School. The real question is, "has Romulus considered the SAC?"

Sincerely,

Robert Yauck Athletic Director Robichaud High

And here's an encounter of another kind:

Dear Mr. Mooradian,

Last September, as the new school year began in Romulus, voters turned down a millage request, thus eliminating the sports program at Romulus High School.

In several issues of the Roman, included in your column were letters critical especially of the coaches at the school.

Since that time, the millage passed in November, and sports were re-introduced.

I think one man should be given a lot of praise, along with his team, for the tremendous job they have done in their basketball season. That man, Mr. Rod Hanna, should be given very much consideration I feel, for "Coach of the Year" honors in our area.

With only weeks of preparation, he and a few players with the belief and determination to carry a winning tradition of Romulus High, set out with all kinds of odds against them, to mold the Romulus Basketball team. Losing their first few games, they have rebounded to win their last five or six games in a row, and turning a bleak effort at the start into a very respectable season.

It is great to see that these players believe in themselves, and have the pride and determination to go out and play respectable ball for their school, as well as themselves. And, much praise must go to Mr. Hanna for molding this team and designing the turnaround.

I am also glad to see the nice press your paper has given the Romulus team in the sports pages. Romulus is a great town, and with the spirit shown by this team, should become even greater. I just thought they should be recognized, along with Mr. Hanna, for the fine job they've done. Don't you?

Barry Baumann, Romulus

Reitz paces Huron to 2 more victories

Defying the law of averages, Gene Reitz jammed in seven successive long shots and New Boston Huron's razor-sharp defense paved the way for the Chiefs' parents' Night victory over Monroe Jefferson.

Jefferson, which led after the first period 15-12, couldn't contain Reitz or solve a solid 1-2-2 Huron zone, fell to Coach Gene Smith's quintet 72-56 in the conference finale.

Reitz tossed in 25 points, hitting on 12 shots from the field and most of those from long range. He connected on six baskets in the second period to help the Chiefs erase the deficit and take the lead for good, 34-29 at halftime.

Jefferson, which was making its final bid for a league victory, fell out of contention in the third period when it made only one of 13 from the field and put a mere three points on the board in that period.

Huron had a commanding 55-32 advantage after three periods as Coach Smith released his second wave of troops to clean up in the last half.

Joining Reitz, who is averaging 19.1 points per game this season, in the double figure scoring column were Randy Pichan who pumped in 14 points and Mike Knight who added 10.

Huron also crushed non-conference rival, Woodhaven, 68-48, for its 12th victory in 18 starts. The Chiefs went on a first half scoring rampage and built up a 33-22 lead, then outscored the Warriors 14-12 and 21-14 in the last two periods, respectively.

Wayne in 2nd place

Zebras win streak reaches 10

Losing to Westland John Glenn hurt, but not where it counted the most, pointed out Wayne coach Chuck Henry whose Zebras saw a six-game winning streak end but preserved a 10-game victory string in the Great Lakes 8 Conference last week.

Wayne succumbed to the sharp-shooting Westlanders 66-51 on Tuesday, then rebounded to crush Riverview 56-48 to hold on to second place in the league.

Though they have a make-up game with Fordson (at Fordson) Thursday night, a loss to the Tractors won't affect their second place. And on Friday the Zebras travel to Livonia Churchill for an out-of-league affair which could be a dress rehearsal for the Class A district playoffs. Churchill is host to two other Great Lakes 8 teams - Lincoln Park and Wyandotte - and joining the pack will be Livonia Franklin and John Glenn.

Wayne remains in the shadows of Taylor Truman which has clinched the conference championship with a 12-1 record. The lone Truman loss was to Wayne which hasn't lost a league game in 1978 after dropping their first three starts in December. Riverview was no match for the fast-breaking Zebras who leaped out in front 16-10 after eight minutes and never looked back. At one point in the first half Wayne had a commanding 32-12 edge but the Pirates scored the final five points.

Wayne went on to outscore their visitors 19-12 in the last period after Riverview came out on top 12-10 in the third period.

One reason for Wayne's effectiveness was Darnell Morris' performance on the boards. He swept them for 12 rebounds and contributed 11 points toward the victory.

Mismatch

Riverview's Bill Ford (10), a 5-10 guard, has his problems taking this rebound away from 6-4 Wayne center, Darnell "Soko" Morris (30) who gave the Zebras control of the boards and 11 points in Friday night's victory over the visiting Pirates. Wayne will warm up for the Class B district playoffs Friday night at Livonia Churchill, host for the post-season tournament which will get underway on Monday.

In 1st round of playoffs

It's Belleville vs. Romulus

Belleville knew little about Romulus at the beginning of the season.

But Coach Tom Niemi and his Tigers learned quickly to respect neophyte Romulus Coach Rod Hanna and the Eagles when the millage-torn cagers pulled a stunning upset over the Suburban 8 Conference power.

The two teams will meet again. And at stake is the Class A district semi-final berth at Ypsilanti. Romulus will take on Belleville Tuesday 7 p.m. in the first round of the playoffs which get underway next week.

In Tuesday's nightcap, host Ypsilanti clashes with Trenton at 8:30 p.m.

The survivors of the first round will play Thursday, March 2. Bedford takes on the winner of the Romulus and Belleville game, while Monroe will await the winner of the Trenton and Ypsi game.

The championship will be decided

7:30 p.m., Saturday, March 4.

Harry Hidenfelter and Ed Baum, athletic directors of Belleville and Romulus highs, respectively, said tickets are available at their offices. Admission is $1.50 for adults and students.

Meanwhile, Romulus is trying to bounce back from a bout with the flu and with Oak Park. With Darryl Lewis, one of the top scorers on the team, and Kevin Wilson, sidelined and two others, Vince Pean and Stu Block visibly hurting from the flu, Hanna's Eagles were subdued by Oak Park 69-64.

A cold shooting streak in the third period helped with Romulus' demise as Oak Park outscored their visitors 20-8 in that period and leaped from a 36-30 halftime lead to a 56-38 advantage.

Bean and John Kersey led a Romulus rally in the fourth period with seven and eight points respectively but the damage had already been inflicted.

"Everything they threw up went in," said Hanna who offered Oak Park's 57 percent shooting accuracy for another reason for his team's setback.

Kersey and Mike Johnson split 36 points while Richard Lewis had 16 for the losers.

Romulus destroyed Detroit St. Andrew 74-47 earlier in the week as four players reached double figures.

Glenn is perfect champ

Westlanders hang on to beat Franklin

Though they had their scary moments, John Glenn shook off an upset-minded Livonia Franklin to nail down the Northwest Suburban Conference basketball championship with a perfect record.

The 69-65 Glenn triumph over Coach Jim McIntyre's Patriots provided the Westlanders with an untarnished 6-0 league record and a 14-4 over-all mark. (Because of millage problems in Garden City last year, Glenn wasn't able to schedule East High, the fifth league affiliate.)

week, said he was pleased at the way his players played.

"The kids wanted the last two games (North Farmington and Franklin) very badly and, though last Thursday night's game with Franklin wasn't a classic, we won. And that's what counts."

Glenn took advantage of a cold-starting Franklin and behind Daran Armstrong's five points and Mitch Preston's four, took an early 18-6 lead. Franklin refused to quit and with junior center Chris Baker coming alive closed the gap to 31-30 at the intermission.

Baker collected nine of his 11 points in the third period and the visitors managed to catch up at 42-41, by Glenn scored the last eight points of the quarter to go ahead 50-42.

Bates led Glenn's attack with 18 points while the elusive Armstrong contributed 16 and Pat McBride added 11.

The Westlanders also took advantage of 27 of 38 free throws.

John Zannis' 15 topped Franklin scorers and John McCool tossed in 12 while Baker finished with 11.

McIntyre was pleased that his players "didn't quit after a slow start."

"We started cold but made up for it," McIntyre pointed out. "It was a pretty physical ball game.

Franklin blew a 20-17 first period lead and lost a 76-59 nonleague decision to Southfield's Blue Jays earlier.

Zannis fired in a season high 26 points and Baker supported him with 24.

2-point landing

Whizzing past a Detroit Andrews' defender, Romulus' Mike Johnson (dark jersey) drives in for a layup for two of his points. Coach Rod Hanna's troops crushed the Detroiters 74-47 last Tuesday but, handicuffed by illness fell to Oak Park on Friday.

Wayne seated in 2nd

Hitting on 42 percent of their shots, Wayne made 24 of 57 from the field and connected on eight of 14. Morris was joined in the double figure scoring columns by L.W. Matthews who also had 11 points and Richard Carroll who contributed 10.

It was a different story however earlier in the week when Westland John Glenn paid the Zebras a visit. Coming off of a big victory over North Farmington, Coach Gordie Davis' Rockets riddled Wayne's zone defense to pieces as Ed Bates and Pat McBride opened up with the long-range artillery, Tom Jurewicz got the work done beneath the baskets and gaudy Daran Armstrong used his finesse to cut in and out of the Zebra defenders for 17 points.

Glenn grabbed a 16-10 lead and held on the rest of the way, going into the dressing room at intermission with a 27-20 edge. The Rockets outscored their rivals 20-13 in the third period which widened the margin by 14, then coasted to their 13th victory in 17 starts.

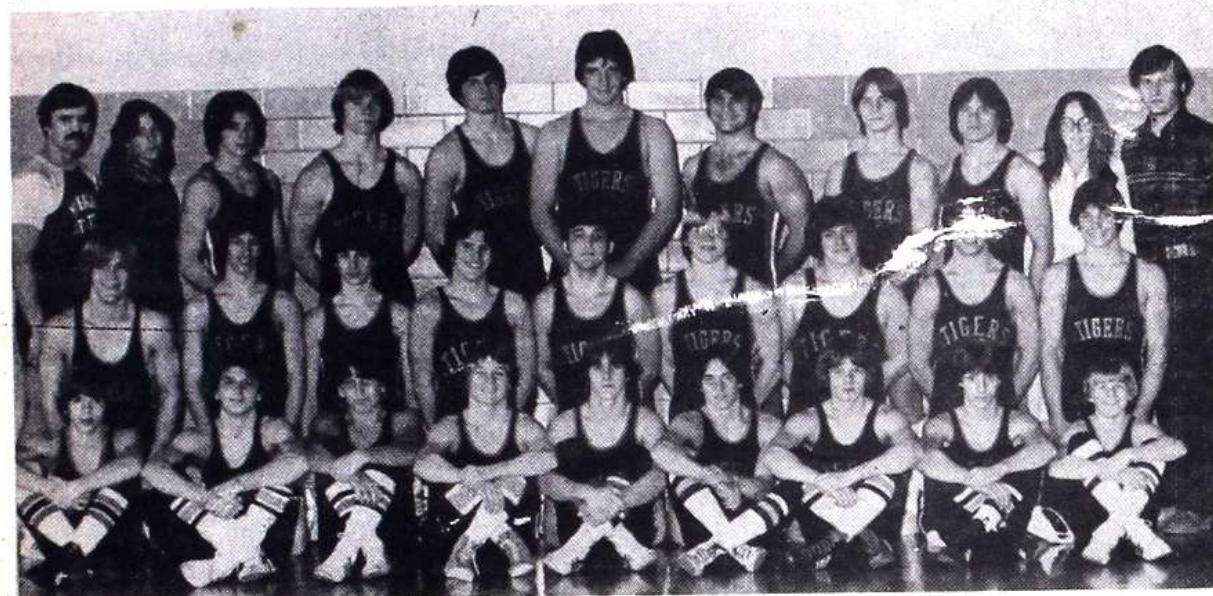

Armstrong's 17 points stood up as the evening's high. He got two more than Morris. Bates accounted for 14 points and Jurewicz had 12 while McBride rounded out a balanced attack with 10 points, which was equalled by Wayne's Matthews.

Belleville's first perfect team

For the second year in a row Belleville has either won or shared the Suburban 8 Conference Wrestling Championship. However, this year's Tigers can boast an accomplishment that none of its predecessors can — it posted the school's first undefeated dual meet (11-0) season. Members of the Tiger squad include Thorn Butler (seated from left), Bob Lemastes, Bob Hollenbeck, Joe Justin, Mark Ford, Ed Paris, Bob Oakley, Jeff Fondau

Wayne whips Wyandotte, stays unbeaten in league

Crushing Wyandotte 124-48, defending champ Wayne Memorial remained undefeated in the Great Lakes 8 Conference swim circuit and padded its over-all record to 10-0 on the year.

Wayne will host the 1978 conference championships beginning Thursday, March 2 at 4 p.m. with the preliminaries. The championships will be staged at 7 p.m., Friday, March 3.

There is a $1 charge for the preliminaries, while fans will have to pay $1.50 to view the finals.

Coach Jim McPartlin's Zebras will wrap up the dual meet phase of the season Thursday night at Riverview. They met Fordson Tuesday night in a make-up meet.

Wayne swept 10 of the 11 first places against Wyandotte which averted the shutout by claiming the diving competition thanks to Mike Sileck.

Dave Hills, the first swimmer in Wayne history to break the five minute barrier in the 500-yard freestyle, turned in a dazzling 4:59.5 to lead teammate Tom Brown to the finish. Hills also won the 200-yard freestyle with a 1:53.5 effort.

Harold Sileck also posted a double win, claiming a first in the 200-yard individual medley. He was clocked in 2:12.2, then returning to the waters and stroking a 1:00.6 for the 100-yard backstroke.

'Hot' Patterson on scoring spree

Belleville's Kelvin Patterson should sue his teammates for non-support.

The sharpshooting junior cager has supplied most of the wealth in the form of points in recent weeks, but, because of a lack of support, the Tigers lost a crucial 64-56 decision to league-leading Livonia Bentley.

Patterson singlehandedly accounted for more than half of the Tiger points, hitting on 12 field goals and slipping in six free throws for 30 points. However, the only other Belleville cager in double figures was Elvis Currie who had 11.

"I felt our team played an excellent game against them," said Belleville Coach Tom Niemi whose team has amassed a 7-4 Suburban 8 Conference record. "We went cold in the second period and had problems recovering the rest of the way."

Bentley, despite its overwhelming edge in height - the Bulldogs have a front line which includes a couple of 6-5 footers and a 6-8 center - had its problems on the boards with the Tigers. And one of the reasons was again Patterson who amazingly found time to nail down 21 rebounds.

"He's just playing superb ball," noted Niemi who isn't one to laud in superlatives.

Belleville led 20-11 after eight minutes but fell behind when the Bulldogs outscored it 18-8 in the second period to go ahead 29-28 at the half. Livonia outscored the Tigers 17-12 and 18-16 in the last two periods to clinch at least a share of the championship.

Bentley is sitting atop of the conference world with an 11-1 record and Salem is standing in the shadows waiting for the leaders to slip. But time is running out on Coach Fred Thomann's Rocks who have a rematch this Friday with Belleville, a team that shocked them the first time around.

Cherry Hill swimmers ready to defend Tri-River crown

Leaving Southgate and Taylor Kennedy swim teams in their wake, Cherry Hill is ready to defend its Tri-River Conference crown.

Coach Jerry Pawloski's Spartans will be seeking an unprecedented fourth consecutive conference title when the teams gather this week at the Inkster-based high school.

The preliminaries for the annual conference championship will be staged Thursday, Feb. 23 at 4 p.m., and the finals will be held 2 p.m. Saturday.

Cherry Hill, which has won eight league titles in the last 10 years, is the overwhelming favorite to retain the title.

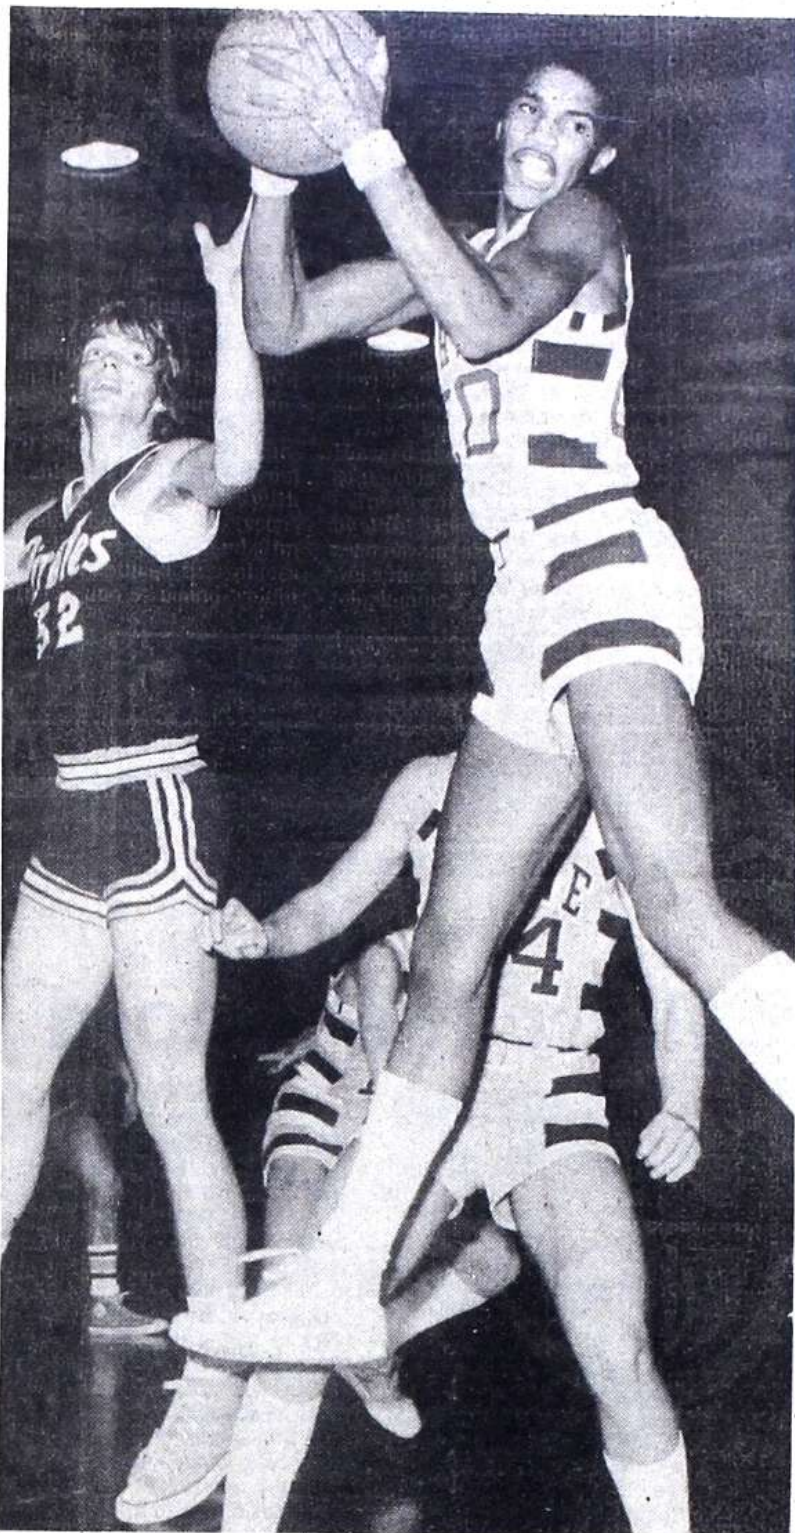

But Pawloski sees Southgate and Crestwood as threats.

"Although we beat Southgate earlier, they are our main threat and Crestwood has improved vastly since we met them last," Pawloski said. "It won't be easy."

There would be little question about the outcome of the meet if the Spartans had their all-stater Rick Kogelschatz in the lineup.

Kogelschatz spent a week on his back in a hospital because of a severe sinus infection and won't be able to compete in the conference championships and is on the doubtful list for the state meet.

Meanwhile Cherry Hill stopped Southgate 98-74 last Tuesday then dumped Taylor Kennedy 124-47 on Thursday to stretch their league record to 5-0 on the year. It was the third consecutive year that the Spartans breezed through the league with an unblemished record.

Belleville South wins swim title

Weathering a serious challenge from visiting Birmingham Berkshire, Belleville South captured the last relay to retain for the fourth time the annual Belleville Junior High Swimming & Diving Championship.

Coach John Stosick's tankers who have hung on to the championships since the invitational's inception four years ago received a dazzling performance from their 400-yard relay team that beat the challenger, Berkshire by more than two-tenths of a second to retain the championship.

"The kids knew we needed to win the relay in order to win the meet and went out and got the job done," Stosick said. "Every year it appears some team gives us a strong challenge for the title but we seem to be able to weather it."

participated and congratulated the two medalist who had worked hard to get there.

"Chris was in the toughest bracket," Wood pointed out. "And he came through. He absolutely couldn't do anything wrong in the finals. He wrestled his best match of the year, destroying Blackmer."

Glenn Coach Bob Lusk pointed out that he took five kids up to the finals and "all five scored points."

"I'm very pleased with our overall effort," Lusk added. "Our 13-1 record is the school's best record."

Belleville's Jerry Malecek said "that injuries crippled his team, but how can I have anything but praise for a team that compiled a perfect dual meet record and retained a share of the conference title?"

Leverenz launched his bid for a coveted gold medal by winning a 10-2 major decision over Terry Whitt of Washington Eisenhower who carried a 23-1 record into the state meet. Then the versatile Wayne athlete ran up against Ron Stibitz of Muskegon who was eliminated from the mats on a 5:45 fall. Dan Ellard was Leverenz' next victim. He beat the Flint Central wrestler, 5-0, to set up the rematch with Blackmer.

Bachus started the meet with a first round 7-4 victory over Jackson Parkside's John Patterson, then met Farmington's Jeff Fagan who lasted

TIMO NEIL

1:23 before he was pinned. In the third round the Wayne senior got a shot at Steve McPherson, a Detroit Catholic Central grappler who was well acquainted with Chris.

Chris met McPherson in a dual meet and the two settled for a 6-all draw. At the DCC Tournament later in the year, Bachus broke another 6-6 draw by winning in overtime, 6-1. The Chris ran up against Hazel Park's Carey VanderHagen who was sporting a 33-2 record. VanderHagen stopped Bachus' dream of a gold by winning a 9-3 decision.

Meyer, who has amassed a 33-5 won-lost record in his senior year, crushed Ferndale's John Heath in 5:27 to get off to an excellent start in the 145-pound class. In the second confrontation, Jeff Williams of East Kentwood stood in the way, but Meyer earned a superior decision, 15-0, to advance to the quarter-finals where Warren Lincoln senior Ron Perry was waiting for him. In an excellently wrestled match, Bill emerged with a 1-0 decision, displaying his best form of the year.

Meyer reached the semi-finals next and Chuck Johnson, a 26-7 wrestler from Battle Creek offered the competition which the Westlander handled 4-1.

Only one man stood in Meyer's way now and that was Fred Worthem, of Mt. Clemens, whose credentials included an untarnished 49-0 record. And of those 49 victories, 38 were by falls.

Though Meyer stood his ground, he lost a 3-0 decision and was forced to settle for a second place.

Justin carried a 31-3 record to the state and the Belleville 119-pounder started off with a 10-4 victory over Mt. Clemens' Keith Shackelford. For his second test, the 16-year-old junior erased Bay City Handy's Tom Olson from the paths, 7-2. Olson had a 35-4 record to boast about.

Despite being knocked unconscious and getting a thumb in his eye, Justin got off the mats to edge Jackson Parkside's Ed Loular.

Justin however was dethroned in his drive for the top honors in his weight class by Danny Logan of Pontiac Northern who won the state title 5-3.

Becker came within a couple of points of destroying Detroit Catholic Central and undefeated senior Nemir Nadhir's dreams of the state title. The 155-pound Franklin grappler clashed with Nadhir in the finals and Nadhir made the near fatal mistake of trying to cradle Becker who almost pinned the top-seeded Detroit.

Nemir squirmed out of the predicament and collected the two decisive points for a 9-7 victory in the finals. The victory gave Nemir his second gold medal in state competition and provided his team, with enough points to edge pre-tournament favorite, Bedford.

Becker's long trail to the finals started with a 7-2 victory in the first round over Bay City Western's Rob Rechsteiner, then he earned a 6-4 decision over Darryl Wellman of Howell who had a 35-3 record. In the third round Mitch stayed on the mats a mere 52 seconds to eliminate Southfield Lathrup's Dave Setsuda and in the semi-finals he pinned East Detroit's Jim Ferguson in overtime in 2:55.

Wayne Ford, Dad's Clubs

Baseball registration begins

With the first call for baseball registrations, can Spring be far away?

Even if Mother Nature refuses to cooperate, several area baseball organizations are enrolling potential players for their softball and baseball leagues.

The Wayne Ford Civic League will hold its annual baseball and softball registrations on March 11 between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. at the Civic League Hall, 1661 N. Wayne Road. Players don't have to be Westland residents to compete in the program. The league abides by the Michigan Parks and Recreation Association rules in respects to age requirements or the class each player is assigned to.

There will be leagues for Pee Wee, Class F, Class E and Class D baseball and the WFLA also will field a women's softball and young girls' softball league. The Men's Softball League is reserved for players 35 and older.

Registration must accompany a $10 fee, but if there are two or more players from one family, the registration fee will not exceed $25.

For those players who may not be able to register on March 11, WFLA athletic director Joe Cooley stressed anyone may sign up by telephoning the Wayne Ford Civic League from 6 to 7 p.m. each Wednesday. That telephone number is 728-5010.

The Dad's Athletic Club of Westland also announced its dates for softball registration which will get underway on Saturday beginning at 11 a.m. until 1 p.m. at the Westland Parks and Recreation Building, 32715 Dorsey, located one block south of Palmer Road, east of Venoy.

Other registration dates (same time scheduled) are Saturday, March 4, Saturday, March 18 and April 1.

The Dad's Club leagues are opened to junior boys, ages seven to nine; senior boys, ages 10 to 14; senior girls, ages 12 to 17 and girls, seven to 11. There is a $15 registration fee not to exceed $30 per family.

League officials caution that the program is limited and players will be placed on a first come, first serve. Questions should be directed to Ben Loranger (729-1315) who is responsible for the junior boys teams; Ray Hunsanger (728-7285), senior boys; Mark Sigler (722-6784), junior girls and Dick Kolnity, (722-6358), senior girls.

The Dad's Club meetings are held on the first Wednesday of each month at the Notre Dame Knight of Columbus Lounge, Van Born east of Wayne Road at 8 p.m. No membership fee is required.

The club is seeking managers, coaches, umpires and field coordinators for the 1978 season.

Top Titan scorer

Long breaks cage record

University of Detroit senior All-American forward hopeful John Long broke all-time great Dave DeBusschere's career scoring record of 1985 points with 25 points in the Titans' 83-82 loss at Georgetown.

Even though the loss ended the Titans' 12-game win string, longest in the nation, Long finished the night with 1986 career points and can be expected to clear the 2,000-point barrier during the team's trio of games in a four-day period this week.

Long started the season with 1545 points in 81 games and has scored 441 points this season in 20 games, a 22.1 average, his highest yet in four seasons at U-D where he has never averaged below 17.1 ppg for a season.

Long earlier this year bettered DeBusschere's career mark of 811 field goals, doing it in 200 less field goal attempts, and started the week with 861 field goals (in 1806 tries) and a career field goal accuracy mark of .477.

The 6-5 Romulus product is just 10 successful free throws away from cracking the Titan career top 10 in that category. He's been cashing them at an .831 rate this season, his best season percentage ever and good enough to raise his career mark to .781 (264 of 338), third best at U-D. Long still has a chance at the U-D season free throw accuracy mark of .854, a total posted in both 1967 and 1968 by Larry Salci.

Long will receive the ball with which he scored his record-breaking point in a special ceremony prior to the CCNY home game for U-D Friday, Feb. 17. That's a rescheduled date to make up for the Feb. 8 postponement when CCNY couldn't get out of New York City.

He received the game ball last year when he crashed the 1000-point mark, the first of two Titans to do it as Terry Tyler, a fellow co-captain this season, also reached the coveted plateau.

Smelt, Dave Dubisky and Jeff Sterling who turned in a 3:51.35 to win the event and the meet.

South also had the winning foursome for the 200-yard medley relay. That team was made up with Mark Oddy, Mark Schofield, Dave Carlson and John Smolen.

Sterling provided South with a first place in the 200-yard freestyle as he turned in a 2:01.55, while Pat McClelland's 224.95 total for six dives edged Birmingham's Tom Waterbury for top honors on the boards by eight-tenths of a point.

The perennial champs also won the 100-yard freestyle thanks to the efforts of Carlson who was clocked in 55.93.

Wolverines look good on mats

If their performances at the Olympic Wrestling Novice and the Centerline Grizzlie Tournaments are any indications of how they'll be a few years from now, Westland John Glenn and Wayne Memorial will have ample wrestling reserves.

The two high schools should look forward to getting youngsters Chad Prater, Wayne Harrison, Charlie Lauber and Scott Griffith who earned medals in age group wrestlers as members of the Wayne-Westland Wolverine Wrestling Club.

Prater, competing in the 8 and under age group, struck gold as he placed first at 72 pounds while teammate Harrison was the second best heavyweight at the Olympic Wrestling Club Novice Tournament.

Meanwhile, at Centerline, Lauber finished second at 72 pounds for eight and under grapplers and Griffith was runner-up for wrestlers 9 and 10 for 59-pounders.

Earlier, the Wolverines competed in the Utica Hawks Freestyle Invitational Tournament and the results were also excellent. They cashed in on seven medals in the eight and under group with heavyweight Chris Zimmerman showing the way with a gold.

Other medalists included Brian Gabriel, third place (67), Charlie Lauber, second place (67), Richard Nastal, third place (58), Rodney Nastal, fifth place (46), Chad Pratal, third place (72) and Marc Sundberg, second (72).

In the 9 and 10 age group, Dan Schimansky's second place at 71 was the closest the Wolverines came to a gold medal. Teammates Mike Conboy placed fifth (71), Richard Curtis was third (68), Scott Griffith was fifth (46) and John Sundberg, fourth (74).

In the 11 and 12 age category, Tom Forchione reached the finals where he won the top honors in the 100-pound class. David Curtis placed third and Jeff Sundberg was fourth in the 78 and 105 pound classes, respectively.

The Wolverines had two top grapplers in the 13 and 14 age group as Robb Paciocco won the 100 pound title and Keith Zimmerman emerged atop of the 155-pound weight class. The Wolverines placed second with George Asher at 80 pounds and Mike Lampien was fifth at 112.

The coaches this season are Cliff Williamson, Mike Holton and the Paciocco brothers - Nick and Michael. Al and Shirley Paciocco are the club organizers.

Red Wings guests of Over 30

This is the week that will determine whether the Wayne-Westland Over 30 Hockey League can muster enough talent to stop the Detroit Red Wing Oldtimers.

The two teams have a date to meet at 7:30 p.m., Friday at the Westland Arena, Wildwood and Hunter. Tickets will be available at the door. Adult admission is $2.50 and children ($1).

Some of the standouts of the Red Wings' bygone days will be on hand to sign autographs.

The regular season action in the Over 30 League is played from 8:30 to 10:30 p.m. Sunday at the Wayne as well as the Westland Arenas.

Grissom's world

Stalking 'Old Square Tail'

By SAM GRISSOM
Outdoor Writer

The early morning sun is just starting to dance on the water as you ease the boat over the last rocks and out into open water.

With the small kicker pushing the boat ahead, you set lines, and start searching the water's surface for cruising fish.

Then, maybe one hundred yards ahead, you see him as he rolls near the surface. You look again uncertain of what you have seen. Unbelievably, you watch him savagely slash his way through a school of minnows.

You watch through binoculars as the boat creeps ahead at what seems like a snail's pace. Will he hold? Will he spot the shadow of the boat before your bait gets anywhere near him?

You try to remain calm as you estimate his size. From your vantage point in the bow of the boat his size seems unbelievable. Maybe three feet of fish grown fat from gorging himself in the shallow waters of Platte Bay.

As you approach your heart pounds and it's all you can do to keep from shouting. Your partner watches your hand signals as you direct the bow of the boat away so that the lures will pass directly over him.

You watch the rhythmic nodding of your rod tips, wonder if the pearl colored Flatfish are running properly, and wait for the one hundred yards of line to pass over the fish.

Knowing that a state record fish of over thirty-two pounds came from these waters makes the waiting seem longer; and in your mind's eye you read the newspaper headlines proclaiming that you have just broken the world's record with this fish.

Your lures pass over the spot where he was holding and nothing happens. He is no longer there. Something spooked him. Something wasn't quite right. Maybe he saw the shadow of the boat. Or maybe one of the hooks on the Flatfish was fouled. What ever the reason you have just been beaten again by the most elusive fish in the Great Lakes, the brown trout.

With his distinctive square tail pushing him through the shallow water, he grows to monster sizes that inspire and infuriate anyone who fishes for them. This is the type of fishing that dreams are made of. It's on par with bonefishing without the cost of traveling extensive distances and paying outrageous guide fees.

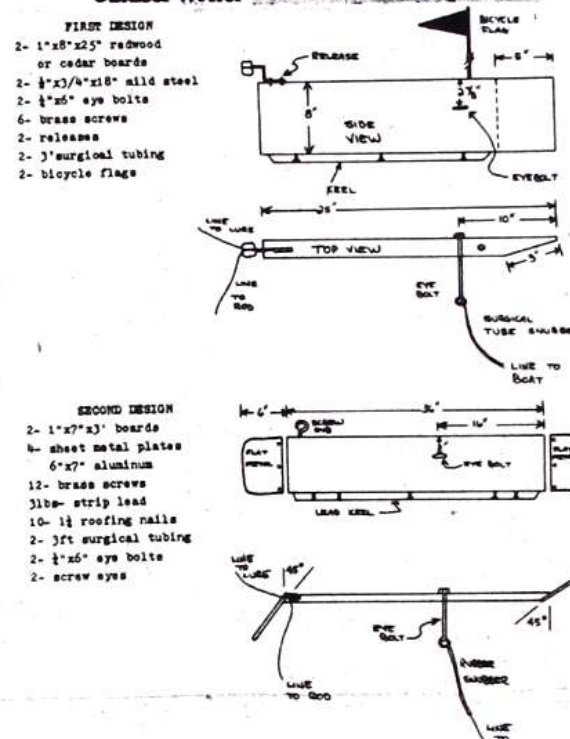

Each year from ice out through early summer, brown trout "hunting" is becoming an obsession with more and more fishermen. Equipment is minimal and this is one type of fishing where the small boat fisherman has the edge over the guys in the big charter boats.

One of the biggest problems you try to overcome is the natural wariness of browns. The slightest thing will often spook them, and when they move into shallow water to feed I've seen them spooked by the shadow of a seagull passing overhead.

You can beat some of this wariness by using light line, seldom over eight pounds, and by running your lures back one hundred to one hundred and fifty yards from the boat. As you boat passes near a fish he will move over and then drop back into the original position when you've passed. Hopefully he will be settled down by the time your lures pass over him.

Sometimes by angling the boat so that only the lures pass near the fish, you'll be able to entice a strike. But again you risk the chance of spooking him with your wake, your motor's noise, or your boat's shadow.

The best way to beat them is by keeping your boat as far away from the fish as possible. A side planning trolling board will enable you to do this. A simple wooden board, it can improve your chances one hundred percent.

The planer rides horizontally in the water and uses the forward motion of your boat to pull it and your lure diagonally away from you. Distances of up to one hundred feet can be reached, and a small piece of wood sliding through the water will seldom spook even the wariest of fish.

By following either one of the below plans you can increase your fish catching ability and the afternoon spent building a pair of them will be time well invested.

Both designs work well, however I've found that the first design is the easiest to build and use. Which ever design you use will improve your fishing.

Before you assemble your planers you need to seal the boards with several coats of varnish. Painting them a bright yellow will help you see their travel path as well as make them visible to other boats. Visibility to other boats is why the first design incorporates the use of the bicycle flag.

The line that you use to run from the planer to the boat should be a minimum of 1/4" nylon rope as they will apply a great deal of strain on the cord. The length of cord will be dependent upon how far out you want them to run from the boat. You find that they run at about a 45 degree angle from the boat. This year I plan on using automatic clothes line reels on my planers to avoid tangling the line. Hopefully I can find some that will hold one hundred feet on line.

One thing that you should not neglect is the rubber snubbers. They will absorb the wave action and keep the planers on position.

I hope that you find the time to get up North to do some Square Tail Hunting. If you do, the addition of the side planers will certainly enhance your chances.

Have a ball and good fishing ya'll.

The oily grime that collects on the outside of the engine of a car should be removed before the engine becomes thickly coated. Dirt on electrical connections can actually result in the cross-jumping of the current and result in faulty starting. Dirt on the gas pedal linkages can interfere with the proper operation of the carburetor. Have an expert explain the degreasing procedure to you. A can of commercial degreaser will help the operation proceed without trouble.
